Yearend Check Of President's Back Delayed

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—President Kennedy visited his seriously ill father, Tuesday, then returned to work on presidential matters.

The President went to Joseph P. Kennedy's bedside in late morning and remained 24 minutes. At that time, it was expected the chief executive would undergo a yearend checkup of his back in early afternoon.

Late in the afternoon, however, it was announced the examining physician, Dr. Preston Wade of New York, had been delayed and would not reach Palm Beach until late Tuesday night. As a result, the examination was postponed until Wednesday.

JFK Turns To Budget

Relaxed and informally dressed, the President drove from the mansion of Col. and Mrs. C. Michael Paul, the temporary White House, to St. Mary's Hospital in West Palm Beach to see his 73-year-old father. The sire of the Kennedy clan is suffering from the paralytic after effects of a stroke and from pneumonia.

In midafternoon, the President turned his attention to the federal budget for the fiscal year starting next July 1, and to his State of the Union message to the next Congress.

Press secretary Pierre Salinger said he expects the President to deliver the State of the Union message in person during the first week of the session which opens Jan. 10.

In announcing that Dr. Wade was coming here to join Dr. Janet Travell the White House physician for the back checkup, Salinger said Kennedy had experienced no recent difficulty with his back.

Dad's Condition "About Same"

Dressed in a blue blazer, gray sports shirt, and white flannel slacks, Kennedy rode to the hospital in an open convertible.

Earlier in the day, Edward M. Kennedy reported his father's condition as "about the same."

Salinger told a news conference that the elder Kennedy's condition remains largely unchanged, but that his temperature had dropped almost to normal. Fever accompanied the pneumonia which developed Saturday after the stroke he suffered last Tuesday.

An operation was performed Sunday to offset throat and chest condition by cutting his windpipe so air could reach the lungs more easily. The surgery was described as successful.

Holiday Traffic Death Toll 524, Six-Year High

By The Associated Press

The Christmas holiday traffic toll reached 524, making the three-day yuletide period the most tragic on the nation's highways in six years.

The National Safety Council said 523 persons were killed in traffic accidents. The Associated Press counted 524 and 83 other deaths in fires and 86 in miscellaneous mishaps.

The over-all total of 693 violent deaths covered the 78-hour period from 6 p.m., local time, Friday to midnight Monday.

Highway fatalities, which surpassed the council's estimate of 500, were the highest since the three-day Christmas season record of 609 in 1955.

The council estimates 330 lives will be lost in auto accidents during the three-day New Year's season starting Friday at 6 p.m., local time. Last New Year's period, also a Saturday, Sunday and Monday weekend, there were 338 fatalities. The 1960 Christmas holiday traffic toll was 486, lowest in 10 years for that period.

"We only can hope that the tragically high Christmas holiday toll just ended will have a sobering effect on all drivers," said Howard Pyle, council president. "This carnage will stop only when every one of us who drives always keeps in mind that a vehicle is one of convenience and pleasure that also can be turned into an instrument of death and injury."

The council said weather could have played a major part in traffic accidents. Many parts of the country were glazed with ice and packed snow, making driving conditions extremely treacherous on highways crowded with Christmas motorists.

Three Children Killed As Fire Sweeps Home

They were Andretta, 1; Michael, 2; and Phyllis Ann, 3, children of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Bias.

Mrs. Bias left the house momentarily to have coffee with relatives next door. She saw smoke and heard the children crying and broke a window in an effort to get to them. The flames and smoke drove her back.

Conservative "Trend" To Aid GOP–Halleck

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Republican Leader Charles A. Halleck said Tuesday a "wave of conservatism apparent throughout the country" might sweep the GOP into control of the House in the 1962 elections.

"We are going to win quite a few seats," Halleck said in an interview. "We have a fighting chance to take control of the House through the elections next November."

The Indiana Republican said he had noted a strong trend toward "conservative thinking" not only in his own district but in other parts of the country where he has been making political speeches.

Pro-Red Laos Leaflets Urge Army Mutiny

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — A 220-man security guard, flown to this capital from pro-Communist bases for a conference of Laos' three warring princes, was accused Tuesday of importing leaflets urging the royal army to mutiny and to wipe out Americans.

Neutralist Prince Souvanna Phouma and his half-brother Prince Souphanouvong of the pro-Communist Pathet Lao, will meet Wednesday with pro-Western Premier Boun Oum on forming a national union government to guide a neutral and independent Laos.

The airlift of the security detail from the east-central base on the Plaine des Jarres was scarcely completed, however, until a storm broke over the leaflets.

Laotian employes of a Western embassy picked up a sample of the leaflets said to have been scattered in bundles by the troops as they rode in trucks from the airport to their area in Vientiane.

Addressed to Boun Oum's royal soldiers, it said: "Disobey all orders and instructions of the American imperialists and Phoumi Nosavan. If for any reason this conference ends in failure it is we who will suffer. Therefore, let us stand firmly and struggle against the tricks of American imperialists and Phoumi Nosavan and wipe them out of the Kingdom of Laos."

Gen. Phoumi Nosavan is Laotian vice premier.

Brig. Gen. Bountieng Venevongsos of the royal army, shown an English translation of the leaflet, angrily seized it and said he would investigate.

The airlift of the soldiers was part of an agreement reached two weeks ago. Boun Oum agreed under pressure to get the conference of the three princes under way. They were flown to Vientiane in a chartered plane of the Indian-Polish-Canadian control commission.

31 Killed In New Wave Of Algeria Terrorism

ALGIERS (UPI)—The right-wing secret army organization (OAS) ended its Christmas truce in Algeria Tuesday and terrorist violence erupted in a new outburst of bombings and killings.

Police said 31 persons were killed and at least 40 others were injured in three days of terrorism in Algeria.

Al Jennings, Last Of Wild West Badmen, Dies At 98

At his side when the end came was Mrs. T. V. Eggleston, the wife of a nephew.

Jennings gave up his rip-snorting desperado days in 1895 when he was sentenced to a life term for a variety of crimes. Thereafter he became a free-lance lawyer, actor, politician, writer and evangelist.

"Most of them were rich Texans," he said a few years ago.

During an interview with United Press International he said, "Best gunfighter I ever saw was Jim Stanton. He killed 20 men. When I was 11 years old, I seen him plug a man right between the eyes. The most beautiful gunfight I ever saw."

Jennings also claimed to have known Jesse James and swore that "some of the finest men I ever knew were hoss thieves."

Coast Guard Takes Crew Off Dredge

Ship Is Abandoned In Raging Atlantic After Towline Snaps

BOSTON (AP) — Ten crewmen from the storm-tossed dredge Cartagena were plucked from the raging North Atlantic Tuesday by coast guardmen after futile efforts to tow the huge craft about 250 miles east of Nantucket.

All suffered exhaustion and exposure. One crewman, Merlin Robinson, 47, was in poor condition.

The Coast Guard cutter Acushnet which accomplished the rescue radioed Robinson was unconscious and "apparently dead" but mouth-to-mouth resuscitation restored his breathing.

Acushnet's message added Robinson "is not oriented and may have internal injuries."

Towline Breaks

Cartagena's crew under command of Capt. Adley LeBlanc of Memphis, Tenn., abandoned ship in rough seas after a towline from the Acushnet snapped in midmorning.

All survivors were aboard the Acushnet at 1:58 p.m. All were described as in good health, except Robinson, despite the rigorous battle with the sea.

Hugh C. Milroy, district manager of Foundation Maritime Ltd. owners of the Tug Foundation Vigilant which was towing the dredge, said an attempt would be made to get another line aboard the dredge to salvage it.

Coast Guard headquarters at Boston said at first the Acushnet would head for Boston but later reported the cutter would proceed to Pollock Rip lightship, about 10 miles off the elbow of Cape Cod.

Copter Available If Needed

If necessary, the coast guard added, the Acushnet would air evacuate by helicopter at dawn Wednesday. This presumably referred to the injured Robinson.

The Foundation Vigilant meanwhile was standing by the Cartagena.

The Coast Guard reported only 10 men aboard the Cargagena but sources in Quebec, the dredge's last port, said there were 11 crew members and a passenger. The Cartagena was en route to Baltimore.

Stratton In N.Y. Governor Race

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Rep. Samuel S. Stratton, Schenectady Democrat who has shown surprising strength in Republican territory, announced Tuesday he would seek to run against Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller in next year's gubernatorial election.

Such a race would pit one divorced man against one who has announced plans for a divorce. But Stratton's nomination did not appear assured, and the Republican state chairman said Democratic national leaders were using the congressman merely as a "hatchet man."

Stratton's first marriage ended in divorce in 1946. At a news conference Tuesday, he declined to comment on the impending divorce of the Republican Rockefeller, who recently announced he and his wife had separated after 31 years of marriage.

Stratton, 45, and his second wife have five children, as do the Rockefellers.

Stratton said the 53-year-old Rockefeller's intended divorce was a personal matter.

Stratton attacked the potential presidential nominee, however, on other grounds. He said Rockefeller had failed to solve the state's economic problems and had become preoccupied with interests outside the state.

Friedel Will Seek Fifth House Term

BALTIMORE (AP)—Rep. Samuel N. Friedel, D-Md., announced Tuesday he will seek renomination to a fifth term in the House of Representatives.

Friedel has represented Maryland's 7th Congressional District since it was created in 1952. The district cuts a big crescent within the inner boundary of much of Baltimore.

Mansfield Sees Trade Program Facing Battle

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana said Tuesday that prospects for Senate passage of a new foreign trade program "are reasonably good" if the administration presents its case well.

Mansfield, the Senate's Democratic leader, said the success of President Kennedy's plea for greater authority to reduce tariffs depends on "how well the administration marshals all its facts."

The Montanan returned to his desk Monday to start preliminary plans on the Senate program for the session opening Jan. 10.

He told reporters extension of the reciprocal trade program on a liberalized basis faces a difficult road and the administration should start spelling out details of its program as soon as possible.

"So far, all we have been given are the generalities of what the administration wants," Mansfield said. "I hope we will be given the specifics shortly, and in no event later than February."

He suggested that the Senate Finance Committee hold hearings simultaneously with the House Ways and Means Committee or that the two committees hold combined hearings to speed congressional action.

And Mansfield proposed that the administration supply each member of Congress as quickly as possible a state-by-state analysis of "exactly what foreign trade mean to each of them in relation to both exports and imports as well as domestic production and employment."

"Japan, for instance," he said, "is the biggest customer this country has for cotton, wheat, soybeans and tanned hides."

Despite large imports from Japan, Mansfield said, the United States enjoys a favorable trade balance with that country.

He voiced his own support for the administration's aims but said time is important during the 1962 election year when there will be pressures in Congress for an early adjournment.

West Missed Chance At Wall, Scott Says

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa, said East Berlin defectors told him the wall erected by Communists in Berlin could have been knocked down when first put up without causing a major conflict.

Scott, just back from four weeks in Western Europe, said in an interview recorded for television and radio use Tuesday in Pennsylvania that the Western Allies could have and should have "knocked the wall down."

"I interviewed some of these German Vopos—the East German police — who defected to the West," Scott said.

"We learned from them in direct questioning that had we moved in to smash that wall down, their orders were to withdraw and not to fire unless we had fired on government buildings which they call 'state buildings.'"

Convent's Pony Recovering From Christmas Binge

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—Honey Bun—a convent's pet pony—is recovering nicely from her Christmas binge.

Honey Bun is the pet of children at the Convent of the Good Shepherd. She observed the holiday by getting potted, staggering bleary-eyed about the convent grounds.

Veterinarian W. L. Austin says it wasn't Honey Bun's fault.

Children fed the pony Christmas apples and the fruit lodged in the caecum, a pouch-like cavity that lies between the large and small intestines. There it began to ferment and the result of fermentation, of course, is alcohol.

"The convent was in a panic," Mother Superior Mary said. "We were all terribly frightened, and we prayed excitedly as fast and hard as we could."

Ride On Ice Ends In Death Of Five

PHILLIPSBURG, Que. (AP)—A family of five, reunited just a week ago, drowned Tuesday when an automobile carrying them across the frozen face of Lake Champlain on a pleasure trip crashed through the ice into 14 feet of water.

The mother had brought the three young children from Alliance, Alta., last week to join her husband in Bedford, Que., where he took a new job several months ago as superintendent of a poultry processing plant.

The victims were David Carr and his wife, Dorothy, both about 30, and their children, Leslie, 5, Stephen, 4, and Jacqueline, 14 months.

After a happy Christmas together, the Carrs had come here Tuesday to visit relatives. Arthur Carr, a brother, suggested a drive over the frozen lake after lunch before the visitors returned home. Ice fishermen had been driving on the ice for weeks without mishap.

Arthur drove the car less than a half mile offshore when the ice suddenly gave way. He managed to escape with his 7-year-old daughter, Lee, but his brother's family was trapped.

Fla. Temperatures Drop To Record Low For Date

By The Associated Press

But most of the nation had dry, clear, normal conditions.

Record low temperatures for the date nipped most of Florida, forecasters said.

The Weather Bureau in Miami received unofficial reports that ice had formed on automobiles in Homestead, 20 miles south of Miami. The mercury fell to 32, the freezing level, in Homested.

The reading of 42 at Miami International Airport was 10 degrees under any previous mark for Dec. 26.

Among other lows were: La Crosse 20, Gainesville 22, Tallahassee 20, Pensacola 29, Jacksonville 25, Tampa 34, Key West 51.

Immokalee in the Everglades farming district reported 27 degrees, frost and ice.

Some damage occurred to unprotected young citrus fruit and to citrus in low-lying pockets and to tender vegetables in the Everglades.

Much of the South had something in common with the North—cold weather early Tuesday. Atlanta, Ga., and Pittsburgh, Pa., had lows of 23. Birmingham, Ala., matched Rapid City, S.D., with 26.

Patches of fog plagued Southern California early Tuesday. Lockheed air terminal in Burbank was socked in, and passengers were transferred to Los Angeles International Airport, where traffic continued without interruption.

Federation Bid Slated By Katanga

Move To Reduce Power Of Central Government Seen

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—A Katanga move to trim powers fo the Congo central government appeared emerging Tuesday on the eve of the first big test of the Kitona unity agreement.

The unity agreement, reached by Congo President Cyrille Adoula and Katanga President Moise Tshombe last Thursday, provided for Katanga members of Parliament to arrive Wednesday for seating in the National Assembly.

Adoula is skeptical. He declared Friday his regime will take energetic action—its exact nature unspecified—if Katanga fails to honor Tshombe's commitment. He followed that up by charging, after Katanga's Cabinet said only the provincial assembly was competent to ratify the agreement, that Tshombe was torpedoing "the last effort to resolve the Katanga crisis by peaceful means."

U.N. To Transport Legislators

However, U.N. sources indicated that arrangements are being made to fly 15 legislators from secessionist Elisabethville to Leopoldville in a U.N. plane and to house them in quarters guarded by U.N. troops.

The Katanga deputies and senators are expected to bring proposals to amend the Congolese constitution to give the provinces more freedom from the central government's control.

Tshombe objects to specifications for a strong central government in the constitution, which was drafted by Belgium before it freed the Congo colony in 1960 but never has been ratified by Parliament.

U.N. Adds 900 Congo Troops

Tshombe's foreign minister, Evariste Kimba, expressed hope that the Congo will evolve a fundamental law providing for a federation of states.

In Paris to confer with Katanga officials there, Kimba said Katanga is "willing to make some concessions," but on condition that they are not one-sided.

The United Nations, in a move previously disclosed by New York headquarters, announced acceptance of more than 900 Congolese troops eventually to serve in Gen. Sean McKeown's Congo force. The decision is apparently aimed to emphasize support for Adoula's regime.

Scientists Urge War Substitute To Save Society

DENVER (UPI)—A committee of scientists proposed Tuesday that a new science be created to keep society from committing suicide with nuclear weapons.

The committee, of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, made the recommendation in a report to the association's 128th meeting.

The report said science had achieved such control over human environment that civilization from now on could kill itself off—even in non-nuclear fields—any time it wanted to.

The report said war itself had become so destructive that it could no longer serve its function of preserving society.

Anthropologist Margaret Mead of the American Museum of Natural History in New York, who signed the report, said in an accompanying paper that America's preoccupation with its own survival, as evidence by the private fallout shelter movement, had debased the national goals below those of primitive societies.

She proposed that the United Nations hold a full-scale debate on an internationally financed shelter program to preserve a "cross-section of the world's present population and a cross-section of members of every culture now represented on earth."

The committee report was signed by Dr. Mead, Dr. Barry Commoner of Washington University, T. C. Byerly of the U.S. Agriculture Department's Agricultural Research Service, Lawrence K. Frank of Belmont, Mass. J. H. Geiger of the Harvard University School of Public Health, and Frank W. Notestein of the Population Council, Inc.

Funeral Rites Held For Johnson's Sister

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (UPI)—Funeral services were held Tuesday for Mrs. Josefa Moss, 49, younger sister of Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson. She was buried in the family cemetery at the LBJ Ranch near Johnson City.

Britain Fears Mideast Crisis

LONDON (AP) — The Defense Ministry announced Tuesday night that British servicemen and an aircraft carrier have been ordered on standby alert because of increased tension in the Middle East.

A Defense Ministry spokesman said 300 servicemen, mostly crews of transport aircraft, were alerted and the aircraft carrier Centaur was standing by at Mombasa, Kenya, to sail on eight hours notice for the Middle East if needed.

Troops in Nairobi were also reported on the ready to be flown from British East Africa.

The Defense Ministry did not say what was causing its concern.

But authoritiative sources said Britain was worried by Iraqi Premier Abdel Karim Kassem's continued threats to annex Kuwait, a neighboring sheikdom rich in oil. Britain rushed troops to Kuwait last summer to stave off an Iraqi threat.

He suggested that the Senate Finance Committee hold hearings simultaneously with the House Ways and Means Committee or that the two committees hold combined hearings to speed congressional action.

And Mansfield proposed that the administration supply each member of Congress as quickly as possible a state-by-state analysis of "exactly what foreign trade mean to each of them in relation to both exports and imports as well as domestic production and employment."

"Japan, for instance," he said, "is the biggest customer this country has for cotton, wheat, soybeans and tanned hides."

Despite large imports from Japan, Mansfield said, the United States enjoys a favorable trade balance with that country.

He voiced his own support for the administration's aims but said time is important during the 1962 election year when there will be pressures in Congress for an early adjournment.

Convent's Pony Recovering From Christmas Binge

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—Honey Bun—a convent's pet pony—is recovering nicely from her Christmas binge.

Honey Bun is the pet of children at the Convent of the Good Shepherd. She observed the holiday by getting potted, staggering bleary-eyed about the convent grounds.

Veterinarian W. L. Austin says it wasn't Honey Bun's fault.

Children fed the pony Christmas apples and the fruit lodged in the caecum, a pouch-like cavity that lies between the large and small intestines. There it began to ferment and the result of fermentation, of course, is alcohol.

"The convent was in a panic," Mother Superior Mary said. "We were all terribly frightened, and we prayed excitedly as fast and hard as we could."

Scientists Urge War Substitute To Save Society

DENVER (UPI)—A committee of scientists proposed Tuesday that a new science be created to keep society from committing suicide with nuclear weapons.

The committee, of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, made the recommendation in a report to the association's 128th meeting.

The report said science had achieved such control over human environment that civilization from now on could kill itself off—even in non-nuclear fields—any time it wanted to.

The report said war itself had become so destructive that it could no longer serve its function of preserving society.

Anthropologist Margaret Mead of the American Museum of Natural History in New York, who signed the report, said in an accompanying paper that America's preoccupation with its own survival, as evidence by the private fallout shelter movement, had debased the national goals below those of primitive societies.

She proposed that the United Nations hold a full-scale debate on an internationally financed shelter program to preserve a "cross-section of the world's present population and a cross-section of members of every culture now represented on earth."

The committee report was signed by Dr. Mead, Dr. Barry Commoner of Washington University, T. C. Byerly of the U.S. Agriculture Department's Agricultural Research Service, Lawrence K. Frank of Belmont, Mass. J. H. Geiger of the Harvard University School of Public Health, and Frank W. Notestein of the Population Council, Inc.

Holiday Traffic Death Toll 524, Six-Year High

By The Associated Press

The Christmas holiday traffic toll reached 524, making the three-day yuletide period the most tragic on the nation's highways in six years.

The National Safety Council said 523 persons were killed in traffic accidents. The Associated Press counted 524 and 83 other deaths in fires and 86 in miscellaneous mishaps.

The over-all total of 693 violent deaths covered the 78-hour period from 6 p.m., local time, Friday to midnight Monday.

Highway fatalities, which surpassed the council's estimate of 500, were the highest since the three-day Christmas season record of 609 in 1955.

The council estimates 330 lives will be lost in auto accidents during the three-day New Year's season starting Friday at 6 p.m., local time. Last New Year's period, also a Saturday, Sunday and Monday weekend, there were 338 fatalities. The 1960 Christmas holiday traffic toll was 488, lowest in 10 years for that period.

"We only can hope that the tragically high Christmas holiday toll just ended will have a sobering effect on all drivers," said Howard Pyle, council president. "This carnage will stop only when every one of us who drives always keeps in mind that a vehicle is one of convenience and pleasure that also can be turned into an instrument of death and injury."

The council said weather could have played a major part in traffic accidents. Many parts of the country were glazed with ice and packed snow, making driving conditions extremely treacherous on highways crowded with Christmas motorists.

Conservative "Trend" To Aid GOP–Halleck

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Republican Leader Charles A. Halleck said Tuesday a "wave of conservatism apparent throughout the country" might sweep the GOP into control of the House in the 1962 elections.

"We are going to win quite a few seats," Halleck said in an interview. "We have a fighting chance to take control of the House through the elections next November."

The Indiana Republican said he had noted a strong trend toward "conservative thinking" not only in his own district but in other parts of the country where he has been making political speeches.

31 Killed In New Wave Of Algeria Terrorism

ALGIERS (UPI)—The right-wing secret army organization (OAS) ended its Christmas truce in Algeria Tuesday and terrorist violence erupted in a new outburst of bombings and killings.

Police said 31 persons were killed and at least 40 others were injured in three days of terrorism in Algeria.

Stratton In N.Y. Governor Race

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Rep. Samuel S. Stratton, Schenectady Democrat who has shown surprising strength in Republican territory, announced Tuesday he would seek to run against Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller in next year's gubernatorial election.

Such a race would pit one divorced man against one who has announced plans for a divorce. But Stratton's nomination did not appear assured, and the Republican state chairman said Democratic national leaders were using the congressman merely as a "hatchet man."

Stratton's first marriage ended in divorce in 1946. At a news conference Tuesday, he declined to comment on the impending divorce of the Republican Rockefeller, who recently announced he and his wife had separated after 31 years of marriage.

Stratton, 45, and his second wife have five children, as do the Rockefellers.

Stratton said the 53-year-old Rockefeller's intended divorce was a personal matter.

Stratton attacked the potential presidential nominee, however, on other grounds. He said Rockefeller had failed to solve the state's economic problems and had become preoccupied with interests outside the state.

Friedel Will Seek Fifth House Term

BALTIMORE (AP)—Rep. Samuel N. Friedel, D-Md., announced Tuesday he will seek renomination to a fifth term in the House of Representatives.

Friedel has represented Maryland's 7th Congressional District since it was created in 1952. The district cuts a big crescent within the inner boundary of much of Baltimore.

West Missed Chance At Wall, Scott Says

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa, said East Berlin defectors told him the wall erected by Communists in Berlin could have been knocked down when first put up without causing a major conflict.

Scott, just back from four weeks in Western Europe, said in an interview recorded for television and radio use Tuesday in Pennsylvania that the Western Allies could have and should have "knocked the wall down."

"I interviewed some of these German Vopos—the East German police — who defected to the West," Scott said.

"We learned from them in direct questioning that had we moved in to smash that wall down, their orders were to withdraw and not to fire unless we had fired on government buildings which they call 'state buildings.'"

Ride On Ice Ends In Death Of Five

PHILLIPSBURG, Que. (AP)—A family of five, reunited just a week ago, drowned Tuesday when an automobile carrying them across the frozen face of Lake Champlain on a pleasure trip crashed through the ice into 14 feet of water.

The mother had brought the three young children from Alliance, Alta., last week to join her husband in Bedford, Que., where he took a new job several months ago as superintendent of a poultry processing plant.

The victims were David Carr and his wife, Dorothy, both about 30, and their children, Leslie, 5, Stephen, 4, and Jacqueline, 14 months.

After a happy Christmas together, the Carrs had come here Tuesday to visit relatives. Arthur Carr, a brother, suggested a drive over the frozen lake after lunch before the visitors returned home. Ice fishermen had been driving on the ice for weeks without mishap.

Arthur drove the car less than a half mile offshore when the ice suddenly gave way. He managed to escape with his 7-year-old daughter, Lee, but his brother's family was trapped.

Funeral Rites Held For Johnson's Sister

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (UPI)—Funeral services were held Tuesday for Mrs. Josefa Moss, 49, younger sister of Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson. She was buried in the family cemetery at the LBJ Ranch near Johnson City.

Britain Fears Mideast Crisis

LONDON (AP) — The Defense Ministry announced Tuesday night that British servicemen and an aircraft carrier have been ordered on standby alert because of increased tension in the Middle East.

A Defense Ministry spokesman said 300 servicemen, mostly crews of transport aircraft, were alerted and the aircraft carrier Centaur was standing by at Mombasa, Kenya, to sail on eight hours notice for the Middle East if needed.

Troops in Nairobi were also reported on the ready to be flown from British East Africa.

The Defense Ministry did not say what was causing its concern.

But authoritiative sources said Britain was worried by Iraqi Premier Abdel Karim Kassem's continued threats to annex Kuwait, a neighboring sheikdom rich in oil. Britain rushed troops to Kuwait last summer to stave off an Iraqi threat.

Three Children Killed As Fire Sweeps Home

They were Andretta, 1; Michael, 2; and Phyllis Ann, 3, children of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Bias.

Mrs. Bias left the house momentarily to have coffee with relatives next door. She saw smoke and heard the children crying and broke a window in an effort to get to them. The flames and smoke drove her back.

TARZANA, Calif. (UPI) — Al Jennings, last of the wild west bad men, died Tuesday at his home here. He was 98.

At his side when the end came was Mrs. T. V. Eggleston, the wife of a nephew.

Jennings gave up his rip-snorting desperado days in 1895 when he was sentenced to a life term for a variety of crimes. Thereafter he became a free-lance lawyer, actor, politician, writer and evangelist.

"Most of them were rich Texans," he said a few years ago.

During an interview with United Press International he said, "Best gunfighter I ever saw was Jim Stanton. He killed 20 men. When I was 11 years old, I seen him plug a man right between the eyes. The most beautiful gunfight I ever saw."

Jennings also claimed to have known Jesse James and swore that "some of the finest men I ever knew were hoss thieves."

Fla. Temperatures Drop To Record Low For Date

By The Associated Press

But most of the nation had dry, clear, normal conditions.

Record low temperatures for the date nipped most of Florida, forecasters said.

The Weather Bureau in Miami received unofficial reports that ice had formed on automobiles in Homestead, 20 miles south of Miami. The mercury fell to 32, the freezing level, in Homested.

The reading of 42 at Miami International Airport was 10 degrees under any previous mark for Dec. 26.

Among other lows were: La Crosse 20, Gainesville 22, Tallahassee 20, Pensacola 29, Jacksonville 25, Tampa 34, Key West 51.

Some damage occurred to unprotected young citrus fruit and to citrus in low-lying pockets and to tender vegetables in the Everglades.

Much of the South had something in common with the North—cold weather early Tuesday. Atlanta, Ga., and Pittsburgh, Pa., had lows of 23. Birmingham, Ala., matched Rapid City, S.D., with 26.

Patches of fog plagued Southern California early Tuesday. Lockheed air terminal in Burbank was socked in, and passengers were transferred to Los Angeles International Airport, where traffic continued without interruption.

Kennedy To Push For Cabinet Level Housing Dept.

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy will push early next year for a new, Cabinet-level Department of Urban Affairs and Housing, officials said Tuesday. But he is expected to defer executive action to bar racial discrimination in housing.

Aides reported the White House probably will take the short-cut route, using Kennedy's own reorganization powers, to create the 11th major department of government. This would mean pending legislation would be dropped.

If this is done, congressional opponents of the new department would have to muster enough support to veto the program within 60 days after its announcement by the President.

It has been widely predicted that Robert C. Weaver, administrator of the Housing and Home Finance Agency, would be named secretary of the department, thereby becoming the first Negro to reach Cabinet rank.

But that gesture apparently is about as far as the Kennedy administration will go in the direction of racial equality in housing until after Congress adjourns next summer, informed officials said privately.

On the advice of administration leaders in Congress and some political advisers, it was reported, Kennedy is laying aside for the present a long-considered executive order prohibiting racial or religious discrimination in any housing built with federal help in the form of loan, loan guarantee, or mortgage insurance.

Earlier officials had predicted freely that the order would be forthcoming before Congress reconvenes on Jan. 10. Kennedy promised such an order in his election campaign.

"It definitely will come," one official said. "The problem is one of timing. I personally would guess it will be issued before next fall's election, but it may be later."

It was explained that Kennedy's advisers fear that issuing the order now, or during the session, would alienate Southern Congress members whose support is badly needed for such top-priority legislation as tariff reduction, a tax overhau' and health care for the aged under Social Security.

10 Who Staged Crisfield Sit-In Ask Jury Trial

CRISFIELD, Md. (AP) — Ten persons, who were arrested here Sunday as they staged sit-in demonstrations against racial segregation in Maryland restaurants, requested a jury trial at their preliminary hearing Tuesday.

The Somerset County jury does not meet again until April, 1962.

Baltimore attorney Juanita Jackson Mitchell, who represented the four white and six Negro students, first asked Magistrate Albert Rich for directed verdicts of acquittal for her clients. When this motion was denied, Miss Mitchell requested the jury trials. Rich set bond of $100 each on the ten defendants, who are charged with violating Maryland's law governing trespass.

Four of the students — Bonnie Kilstein, 21, white, of New York City; Frank McDougald, 19, Negro; Donnie Fleming, 18, Negro; and Reginald Robinson, 22, Negro, all of Baltimore—posted bond and were released. The others indicated they would post bond by Friday, and were returned to the Somerset County Jail in Princess Anne.

All ten of the students were arrested Christmas Eve at the City Restaurant in Crisfield when they refused to leave at the request of the restaurant's manager. All spent Christmas Day in jail rather than post bond.

Historic Dixie Hotel Burns

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—One of the South's fabled landmarks—the historic Maxwell House—lay in smoking ruins Tuesday, victim of a Christmas night fire which roared through its five floors.

Only the fire-blackened outer brick walls remained standing like silent sentinels over the hotel's 102-year history.

Scores of firemen were able to prevent the blaze from spreading to adjacent buildings in the heart of Nashville's business district. But this last of several fires over the years was too much for the Maxwell House, onetime social and political center of this area.

Damage estimates ranged to more than a million dollars. Officials said the fire started on the fourth floor and soon spread beyond control. All the 60 to 70 guests apparently were evacuated safely. One man, however, still was unaccounted for.

Dating back to 1859, the unfinished Maxwell House served temporarily as a Yankee prison during the Civil War and sometimes housed as many as 400 Confederate soldiers.

Grand Jury Holds Urgent Session

BALTIMORE (AP)—A hastily-summoned federal grand jury met in extraordinary session for more than six hours Tuesday, but spokesmen declined to make any comment on the closed-door session.

The jury met before Chief U.S. District Judge Roszel C. Thomsen, who apparently had been summoned in such haste that he did not have the opportunity to don his judicial robes. Judge Thomsen explained that the garments were in a locked room and, rather than keep the jury waiting, he mounted the bench without them.

After its formal reception by Judge Thomsen, the jury retired to a locked room with U. S. Attorney Joseph D. Tydings and Arnold M. Weiner, an assistant federal attorney. Weiner has been active in the past several years in prosecuting criminal charges against Maryland savings and loan firms.

Savings-Loan Firm Appeals To Court

UPPER MARLBORO, Md. (AP)—The American International Savings & Loan Association Inc., asked the Prince Georges County Circuit Court Tuesday to deny a request of Maryland's attorney general to revoke its charter.

In a nine-page answer filed with the court, the firm said:

"Forced liquidation . . . would benefit only receivers who would get commissions, auctioneers who would receive fees and counsel to the receiver who would obtain employment and fees."

Maryland Attorney General Thomas B. Finan, on Nov. 28, had asked for dissolution of the association charging it with "misuse, abuse or nonuse" of its powers.

$2.8 Million Paid Maryland Jobless

BALTIMORE (AP) — The De-ity paid $2.8 million in benefits to partment of Employment Secur-jobless Marylanders during November, an increase of 11.7 per cent over the amount paid in October.

Stephen C. Cromwell, executive director of the DES, said the increase reflected scattered seasonal layoffs in apparel and the usual seasonal termination of canning operations and the curtailment of seafood activity.

There were also indefinite layoffs in the Baltimore area in primary and fabricated metals, wholesale trade and transportation equipment manufacturing.

Cromwell said benefit payments can be expected to increase or continue at higher levels from now until the arrival of warmer weather in the spring.

Despite the November increase, Cromwell said, benefit payments for the month were 27.9 per cent below the $3.9 million paid in November 1960.

Whitmore To Run For State Senator

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Del. John M. Whitmore, D-Anne Arundel, Tuesday announced for Democratic nomination for state senator with a pledge to strip the office of much of its political power over local affairs.

Whitmore, who plans to oppose Sen. Louis N. Phipps' bid for re-election, said he will work for a home rule charter for Anne Arundel County "to place legislative responsibility for purely local matters in the hands of the county commissioners and to curb the power of the senator."

He promised to lead a reform movement with a ticket "free of domination of selfish political interests, free of financial control by the gambling industry and free of the greedy hangers-on with their hands held out for loot."

Whitmore said the county government has suffered from "inept and selfish leadership of the various political machines" and interference by the state senator in local affairs.

Four Named To College Board

ANNAPOLIS (AP — St. John's College announced Tuesday the appointment of four new members of its Board of Visitors and Governors.

They are John Gaw Meem, Santa Fe, N.M., architect; Thomas M. Evans and Louis T. Rader, business executives of New York City; and Duane L. Peterson, Baltimore business man and civic leader.

The appointments were made at a recent meeting at which the college governing board also voted to increase its size from 29 to 35 members. Dr. Richard D. Weigle, college president, said expansion will permit the board to increase its representation from the Southwest.

The college is planning to open a new campus at Santa Fe within three years. Meem, one of the leading architects in the Southwest, donated 200 acres of land for the site of the new college.

Peterson, board chairman of Peterson, Howell and Heather and subsidiary leasing firms, is a trustee of Boys Latin School and Ripon College and is vice president and director of the Association of Independent Colleges in Maryland.

14 Die In Maryland Holiday Accidents

By The Associated Press

A 6-month-old Bethesda boy died Tuesday when his father's car ran into a utility pole near Chevy Chase Lake as the family returned from a Christmas trip near Philadelphia.

He was Russell E. Stanford II, son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell E. Stanford. The father told police he fell asleep just before the accident.

Earlier, during the 78-hour Christmas holiday, a total of 13 persons died in various accidents — 10 in traffic, 2 in fires and 1 when he was hit by a train.

State Police said there had been 454 traffic deaths on the state's highways this year, compared with 503 for the comparable period of 1960.

Maryland News In Brief

BALTIMORE (AP) — An official of the Maryland courts said Tuesday the state judicial system handled a record load of cases during 1961.

Frederick W. Invernizzi, director of the administrative office of the Maryland courts, said there was an increase of 8 per cent in litigation during the year, compared with 1960.

He said, however, that out-of-court settlements disposed of four times as much litigation as was tried in the courts. Invernizzi said a total of 19,094 cases were filed in equity courts, about half of them divorce or separation cases. He said Maryland courts disposed of 21,025 law cases.

The increase in litigation, he said, was statewide, but 75 per cent of it was filed in Baltimore city and the urban counties of Baltimore, Anne Arundel, Montgomery and Prince Georges.

BALTIMORE (AP) — False reports of a bomb delayed departure of an Eastern Airlines passenger plane until Tuesday morning.

J. E. Baker, chief agent of the airline, said the Washington office of Eastern was notified a bomb was aboard the plane, Flight 97 en route from Syracuse to Nashville.

The 66 passengers disembarked as airport police searched the plane, which was grounded at Friendship Airport for about two hours.

BALTIMORE (AP)—The director of the Baltimore Zoo, Arthur Watson, says admission fees comparable to those charged by movie theaters are "within a year or two of reality."

"Paid days are one way out of our financial difficulties and justify our growth," Watson said, adding:

"Almost all European zoos charge admission and most of the United States zoos either do or will."

He said he did not believe patrons of the zoo would object to an admission fee.

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Maryland Blue Cross will start moving its headquarters from downtown Baltimore to Towson after working hours Wednesday.

The non-profit hospital payment plan, which will begin its 25th year next Tuesday, opened for business in a one-room office in 1937.

The shift of operations to a new building located adjacent to Towson State Teachers College will be completed by Jan. 2.

"Policeman Of Year"

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Maryland Crime Investigating Committee announced Tuesday its nomination of Chief Gilbert L. Deyle of Baltimore County as "Policeman of the Year."

The committee listed Deyle's accomplishments during the year and said he "continues to do an excellent job in every investigative, administrative, organizational and civic task he undertakes."

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: While waiting for a bus on a nasty morning three years ago one of the handsomest men in our neighborhood gave me a lift right to my office door.

I've enjoyed his scintillating company these past three years and have saved well over $200 in bus fare. It was too good to last. The bolt from the blue went like this:

"My dear, I've enjoyed your beauty and your conversation for a long time. I'm afraid, however, the animal is beginning to gnaw upon the man. Lest this phase of the foolish forties leads me to irresponsible behavior I'd prefer to confine my offer of transportation to days of inclement weather only."

Now, Ann, this man sails by me every morning and waves. I don't know if I should admire him or heave a brick through his windshield. Is there a possibility that he was fishing for an interesting proposal from me?—CURBED

DEAR CURBED: Not only is it possible, Buttercup, but it's so doggone likely that I'd bet my typewriter ribbon on it.

The next time there's a tree-falling storm and the neighborhood pin-up boy offers you a ride shout "No thanks — the weather isn't inclement enough."

DEAR ANN LANDERS: This is my second marriage. My first husband gave me a beautiful diamond engagement ring. It has no sentimental value but it's a gorgeous stone.

My present husband gave me a beautiful diamond wedding band. It goes perfectly with the ex's engagement ring. My husband doesn't want me to wear the former husband's ring under any conditions. I've offered to have it re-set and he says "No HE bought it for you and I don't want you to wear it."

I've thought of having it made into a pin or a pendant but I seldom wear that type of jewelry. I suppose I could sell it but if I did I'd never be able to own a stone like this again. You decide, Ann.—RIVERSIDE

DEAR RIVERSIDE: Sell the ring and get it out of your life. Of what value is a diamond if this second marriage goes down the drain? Since you know it's a source of irritation, get smart and unload it.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My mother is a great fan of yours. I read your column regularly, too, but I don't always agree with your advice. I DO agree with what you say about going steady, though.

I first went steady when I was 15. It lasted 11 months. After a while Jeff and I could almost read each other's minds. It got so boring I gave up. I felt as if I had been let out of jail. I didn't know there were so many interesting fellows in the world until I got free of Jeff.

Now my folks say I am going with too many different guys. They don't like it. My father says it's bad for a girl's reputation. I need your opinion. — ESCAPED

DEAR ESCAPED: Variety is the spice of life but make sure it doesn't get too spicy.

So long as your parents meet every fellow you date (insist that they call for you at home) and if you respect your parents' curfew, I see nothing wrong in dating several young men.

To learn the difference between a marriage that "settles down" and one that "gets dull," send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "What To Expect From Marriage," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Young Belle Of The Ball

Only a few more days now until that big New Year's Eve party. And for many a young lady, it's the most important, most formal date of her life so far.

People who've known you all your life do look at you differently when you suddenly take your place among your elders on an evening as important as this. You hope they'll think that little Janie's grown up to be an attractive young woman; and they will if you show your womanliness, if you add becoming assurance to being young, fresh, and beautiful in your own way.

Of course, I don't mean trying to look the woman of the world. That's the worst possible mistake. I do mean that the graceful self-confidence that's maturing in you counts very specially, with others and for your own good time. Let's see how you can help yourself to feel and look at ease when the big evening comes.

Plan to look like yourself, even if it is a more glamorous self than ever before. After all, your escort invited you, and he'll be numbed by an exotic creature he feels he doesn't know. Think twice about a new hairdo. It should be one that isn't too old for you and is easy to keep neat all evening — you'll be out hours longer than usual. Preview, or pre-wear new slippers around the house, so if there's need for a little stretching or strap adjusting, this can be done in time. Many a wonderful evening has dimmed because limping Cinderella couldn't dance another step.

During the evening, don't chatter. Rapid fire talk is a dead giveaway of uncertainty. Toss out conversational leads and take part in the listening. Avoid exaggerated mannerisms. If you're confronted with unfamiliar customs or service, take your cue from observation, do what seems most sensible, or ask. The right thing is always the easiest and most graceful. And don't be blase. Without making a show of it, show you're having a good time —enthusiastic people are always the most fun.

Child's Note Of Thanks Has Charm

A child's letter has its own charm. Though sentences be a triffle awkward and penmanship original, there is nothing as gratifyng as a thank-you note from a grandchild, niece, nephew or any child you remembered at Christmas.

One of the first things a mother teaches her child is to say "Thank you" and "You're Welcome". Too many women feel their job is finished once the child masters this simple courtesy.

But the thank-you note is as essential to plain old good manners as the spoken word. Every mother owes it to her children to take time and instill in them this habit which earns good will and appreciation for a life-time.

Thank-you notes date past the Yule Log but that doesn't mean you have to be behind the times. Today, children can take pen in hand without mom having to worry about spilled ink, soiled clothing or dripping fingers. The modern ball point is as easy to master as a crayon or pencil.

A good idea would be to get the child his own stationery; young children love giddy, colorful material with bold stripes, dots or animal decorations. Though the post-Christmas season is a perfect time to start them on thank-you notes, let the kids send their own birthday invitations and any other corespondence you would ordinarily do for them.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: While waiting for a bus on a nasty morning three years ago one of the handsomest men in our neighborhood gave me a lift right to my office door.

I've enjoyed his scintillating company these past three years and have saved well over $200 in bus fare. It was too good to last. The bolt from the blue went like this:

"My dear, I've enjoyed your beauty and your conversation for a long time. I'm afraid, however, the animal is beginning to gnaw upon the man. Lest this phase of the foolish forties leads me to irresponsible behavior I'd prefer to confine my offer of transportation to days of inclement weather only."

Now, Ann, this man sails by me every morning and waves. I don't know if I should admire him or heave a brick through his windshield. Is there a possibility that he was fishing for an interesting proposal from me?—CURBED

DEAR CURBED: Not only is it possible, Buttercup, but it's so doggone likely that I'd bet my typewriter ribbon on it.

The next time there's a tree-falling storm and the neighborhood pin-up boy offers you a ride shout "No thanks — the weather isn't inclement enough."

DEAR ANN LANDERS: This is my second marriage. My first husband gave me a beautiful diamond engagement ring. It has no sentimental value but it's a gorgeous stone.

My present husband gave me a beautiful diamond wedding band. It goes perfectly with the ex's engagement ring. My husband doesn't want me to wear the former husband's ring under any conditions I've offered to have it re-set and he says "No HE bought it for you and I don't want you to wear it."

I've thought of having it made into a pin or a pendant but I seldom wear that type of jewelry. I suppose I could sell it but if I did I'd never be able to own a stone like this again. You decide, Ann.—RIVERSIDE

DEAR RIVERSIDE: Sell the ring and get it out of your life. Of what value is a diamond if this second marriage goes down the drain? Since you know it's a source of irritation, get smart and unload it.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My mother is a great fan of yours. I read your column regularly, too, but I don't always agree with your advice. I DO agree with what you say about going steady, though.

I first went steady when I was 15. It lasted 11 months. After a while Jeff and I could almost read each other's minds. It got so boring I gave up. I felt as if I had been let out of jail. I didn't know there were so many interesting fellows in the world until I got free of Jeff.

Now my folks say I am going with too many different guys. They don't like it. My father says it's bad for a girl's reputation. I need your opinion. —ESCAPED

DEAR ESCAPED: Variety is the spice of life but make sure it doesn't get too spicy.

So long as your parents meet every fellow you date (insist that they call for you at home) and if you respect your parents' curfew, I see nothing wrong in dating several young men.

To learn the difference between a marriage that "settles down" and one that "gets dull," send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "What To Expect From Marriage," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Young Belle Of The Ball

Only a few more days now until that big New Year's Eve party. And for many a young lady, it's the most important, most formal date of her life so far.

People who've known you all your life do look at you differently when you suddenly take your place among your elders on an evening as important as this. You hope they'll think that little Janie's grown up to be an attractive young woman; and they will if you show your womanliness, if you add becoming assurance to being young, fresh, and beautiful in your own way.

Of course, I don't mean trying to look the woman of the world. That's the worst possible mistake. I do mean that the graceful self-confidence that's maturing in you counts very specially, with others and for your own good time. Let's see how you can help yourself to feel and look at ease when the big evening comes.

Plan to look like yourself, even if it is a more glamorous self than ever before. After all, your escort invited you, and he'll be numbed by an exotic creature he feels he doesn't know. Think twice about a new hairdo. It should be one that isn't too old for you and is easy to keep neat all evening — you'll be out hours longer than usual. Preview, or pre-wear new slippers around the house, so if there's need for a little stretching or strap adjusting, this can be done in time. Many a wonderful evening has dimmed because limping Cinderella couldn't dance another step.

During the evening, don't chatter. Rapid fire talk is a dead giveaway of uncertainty. Toss out conversational leads and take part in the listening. Avoid exaggerated mannerisms. If you're confronted with unfamiliar customs or service, take your cue from observation, do what seems most sensible, or ask. The right thing is always the easiest and most graceful. And don't be blase. Without making a show of it, show you're having a good time —enthusiastic people are always the most fun.

Child's Note Of Thanks Has Charm

A child's letter has its own charm. Though sentences be a triffle awkward and penmanship original, there is nothing as gratifyng as a thank-you note from a grandchild, niece, nephew or any child you remembered at Christmas.

One of the first things a mother teaches her child is to say "Thank you" and "You're Welcome". Too many women feel their job is finished once the child masters this simple courtesy.

But the thank-you note is as essential to plain old good manners as the spoken word. Every mother owes it to her children to take time and instill in them this habit which earns good will and appreciation for a life-time.

Thank-you notes date past the Yule Log but that doesn't mean you have to be behind the times. Today, children can take pen in hand without mom having to worry about spilled ink, soiled clothing or dripping fingers. The modern ball point is as easy to master as a crayon or pencil.

A good idea would be to get the child his own stationery; young children love giddy, colorful material with bold stripes, dots or animal decorations. Though the post-Christmas season is a perfect time to start them on thank-you notes, let the kids send their own birthday invitations and any other corespondence you would ordinarily do for them.

10,000-Year-Old Skeleton Found In Bedford Area

Just 30 miles north of here in Bedford County spare-time cave explorers have dug up the remains of a collared lemming, an animal never before seen more than a few hours' scamper below the Arctic Circle.

And the skeleton is 10,000 years old — as the creature lived in this section during the ice age when the polar ice cap pushed into the United States, giving it an arctic climate.

The discovery was made in the New Paris sinkhole, located about ten miles west of Bedford, and north of Shawnee Park.

This has been called the best deposit of bones of the Pleistocene Age in eastern North America.

At the New Paris Sink Hole, the work of unearthing the secrets of the Ice Age has been going on for the past 11 years through a unique partnership of experts from the Carnegie Museum in Pittsburgh and cave-exploring amateurs.

During the past decade, there have been unearth more than 1,200 small animals, the largest an ancient long, legged peccary as big as a medium-sized dog.

Carnegie Museum opined that this animal must have been very young, because this species of peccary grew to be as large as a small horse.

This was the first of the species found this far north, proving that at least one peccary could survive in a cold climate.

Geologists and other scientists say that during the Ice Age the polar cap pushed as far south as a point about 200 miles north of Cumberland.

This created a land that looked like the tree-less, half-frozen tundra does today, bleak and barren, supporting only the hardiest of life.

The New Paris Sink Hole is giving up the whole climate history of this region from the Ice to the present.

John Guilday, assistant curator of Carnegie Museum's Department and Comparative Anatomy, pointed out that as the ice cap retreated the tundra here gave way to tree growth like that now found in northern Canada—mostly spruce, alder, jack pine, birch and fir.

Moving north with the ice went the collard lemming. Much later came forest fires sweeping the news woodland, leaving their ashes in the sinkhole.

This was in the time that the peccary lived in this section.

Thousands of years passed before the forests began to look as they do today in this section, dominated by aspen, oak and maple.

Near present-day 46th Street and the East River in New York City, royalist troops hanged Nathan Hale as a spy.

Woman To Woman

By PATRICIA McCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI) — Holiday party time for parents means rush money-making season for babysitters—some new, some old hands.

In the interest of safe sitting, the accident prevention committee of the American Academy of Pediatrics issues a prescription with a two-way pitch. It's for parents—and sitters.

"Our children are our most precious possession," the child specialists said, "and whoever is entrusted with their care should be well recommended, have mature good judgement, and enjoy children."

Parents are urged to do four things when they find such a sitter and are about to take off for a merry time.

The instructions:

—Tell the baby sitter where you will be and leave the phone number where you can be reached.

—Leave the sitter the phone number of the local police department and the children's doctor.

—Leave EXACT instructions on care of the children, what they are to eat, when they are to go to bed.

—Review with the baby sitter various escape routes in case of fire.

To the sitters, the pediatricians made general and specific instructions. They include:

—Remember that these parents have entrusted you with their most valuable and precious possession. Be sure that your actions justify this faith in you.

—If the children awaken crying, and do not feel feverish, tender, motherly, loving care will usually be successful. If an infant, burping, changing, or feeding may also be needed. If nothing else suffices, call the parents.

—In case of illness or accident, contact the parents immediately and if they are not available, call their doctor. If their doctor is not available, call your own doctor.

—In case of smoke or fire, get the children out of the house immediately. DON'T stop to dress the children or make a phone call. Take the children to the nearest neighbor and then, and only then, call the fire department. Then—call the parents.

—In case you hear a strange noise or sound, remember that usually such noises or sounds may come from the pipes when the heat rises or from a banging shutter. If you cannot identify a sound, call the police—then the parents.

East was the victim of a genuine Houdini act in today's hand.

The final contract of four spades was sound enough, tho most players would prefer to raise to three no trump with the South hand in preference to rebidding spades.

West opened the six of hearts, and East cashed two tricks in that suit. At this point he became remorseful over his failure to double, for with the ten of spades in dummy it appeared physically impossible to prevent his winning two trump tricks. It all seemed like a mirage to East when declarer so skillfully managed his cards as to hold the defense to only one trick in spades.

At trick three East exited with the jack of clubs. Declarer grabbed the ace and then led to the king of spades and received the jarring news that East had what appeared in print to be two sure trump tricks. With a little reflection declarer reached the conclusion that his cause was not utterly hopeless and that the hand could be won if East had to follow to four rounds of diamonds, a remote holding to be sure.

He, therefore, ran the diamond suit and was gratified to learn that East had four diamonds. Declarer discarded his two small clubs and then ruffed a club as East followed. When the ten of hearts was now led from the closed hand and a discard made from dummy, East was down to nothing but spades and ruffed in with the seven. In this position, East holding Q-9-8 of spades was burdened with the lead and could not prevent declarer from taking the balance, because the forced lead of the eight permitted dummy to win with the ten.

Potomac Park Resident Asks Road Repairs

A Potomac Park resident appeared before the Allegany County Board of Commissioners this morning to inquire about the status of a number of roads in that area that have been approved for inclusion in the county's road system.

Joseph Jenkins explained that G Avenue, one of four roadways that are being considered for inclusion in the system, borders on his property.

Fill that has been used to widen the street to county specifications is washing onto his property, Jenkins said, and asked if the county plans to construct a wall in order to prevent the wash in the future.

Commissioners John T. Mason and Louis V. Shinnamon informed Jenkins they would inspect the situation with Harry Skelly, county roads supervisor, and Leslie J. Clark, county attorney, as soon as it can be arranged.

Avenues B, C, F and G were approved for inclusion in the roads system at the December 19 meeting of the board, with the stipulation that they be inspected by the Maryland State Roads Commission in order that it be assured the necessary specifications are being complied with.

Jenkins stressed that he had no intention of blocking the move to have the roads included in the county system, but felt some action should be taken to prevent damage to his property.

The fill, he explained, has been added to widen G Avenue to county specifications. Since it was not tamped, and there is no wall at the base of the fill, Jenkins said the dirt is sliding onto his land.

The discussion was the only matter to be taken up at the abbreviated session.

The board president, John J. Rowan, did not attend the meeting, spokesmen explaining that he had business out-of-town yesterday.

Driver Hurt In Auto Crash

Davis was admitted to Potomac Valley Hospital in Keyser with an injury to his forehead.

Maryland State Police who investigated said the mishap occurred at 7 p. m. and involved two automobiles and a bus.

Tfc. Robert C. Dishong said Davis was operating his four-door sedan northbound on State Route 36 when he struck a bus which had stopped in his lane of traffic and was being driven by Melvin K. Deshong, of 231 Clay Street, Westernport. Police said the Davis car continued on, striking a third car which was parked and owned by James W. Grubbs, 18 North Mineral Street, Keyser.

Meanwhile, Victor Arthur Livengood, 22, Oldtown, and his wife, Cathy D. Livengood, remain patients in Memorial Hospital where they were admitted following an accident Saturday afternoon on State Route 51, about seven miles east of Cumberland.

The crash occurred when the Livengood car skidded into another vehicle being operated by Leonard P. Fowler, Star Route, Paw Paw.

Mrs. Ruth Shyrock, a passenger in the Livengood auto, was admitted to the hospital following the accident but was released Monday.

City Hall Departments Close Early Friday

City Hall offices and Departments will close Friday at noon and remain closed until Tuesday, January 2 at 9 a. m. in observance of the New Year's holiday.

This follows the same procedure as for Christmas.

The Mayor and Council will meet next Tuesday at 10 a. m.

New Weather Forecasting System For Fruit Belt

Orchardists and farmers in the nearby counties of Northern Virginia, southern Pennsylvania, Eastern Panhandle of West Virginia, and the four fruit producing counties of Maryland will welcome a new localized weather forecasting program planned for the area.

The plan will call for the establishing of an office manned by a clerical and meteorological staff. It will likely be located on the West Virginia Experimental Farm, at Kearneysville. Two additional meteorologists will be stationed at the Washington National Airport, in Washington.

When the service is started next spring, it will necessarily be on a somewhat restricted basis, due to time needed in lining it up with local conditions.

A shortage of experienced meteorologists can also slow down full speed on the project in the spring, but the government is now training meteorology students at Rutgers University.

Many of the decisions made by orchardists must come within the scope of a few hours and are governed by weather forecasts.

The present plans call for the localized data to be available upon inquiry at the field office, or at Washington.

Carroll Miller, secretary of the Appalachian Apple Service, stated that the area to be covered by the service produces $70 million worth of fruit in an average year.

Lynn Means, chief of the public and agriculture forecast section of the U. S. Department of Commerce Weather Bureau, stated that the Weather Bureau has an appropriation of $75,000 which will make the project possible.

Predictions made under the new set-up will cover a three-day period.

Lighting Contest Judging Set

Judging in the annual Christmas tree lighting display contest sponsored by the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce for the Cumberland area will be held Thursday.

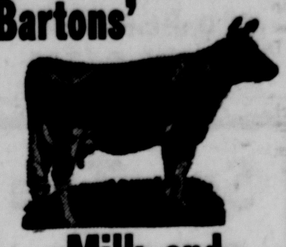

John D. Schartiger, chairman, asked those who have submitted entries to leave their lights on between the hours of 6 p. m. and 10 p. m.

Judges are Harry I. Stegmaier, 535 Washington Street; David C. Christopher, 907 Michigan Avenue, and Jack Wagoner, 611 Shriver Avenue.

The deadline for entries was Christmas Eve, but Schartiger said additional ones may be made by telephoning him at PA 2-5851.

Skiers Active On Slopes In Garrett County

Winter sportsmen got a chance to try out those new Christmas skis and equipment over the weekend in Garrett County as up to six inches of snow covered the recreation sections.

About a half hundred skiers were active yesterday on the slopes of Marsh Mountain along Deep Creek Lake where a tow is in operation.

Cumberland was spared the brunt of the storm that began Saturday morning and continued through Monday.

Allegany County's heaviest snow east of here was three inches at Picardy. Frederick had five inches, Hagerstown, four inches, while Cumberland had a little over an inch.

Local Police Check Thefts

Mrs. R. H. Rader, 448 Williams Street, reported two hubcaps, valued at $40, stolen.

Marshall Adams, 310 Grand Avenue, informed police that two hubcaps from his car were also taken.

Homer H. Eackles, 413 Louisiana Avenue, informed authorities that two hubcaps were also stolen from his car.

Robert Taylor, 10 Blackiston Avenue, told local police that a transistor radio, valued at $20, was taken from his car while it was parked on a downtown parking lot.

Construction Worker Injured In Fall

The mishap occurred about 8:45 a.m. while Smith was working on the tank. He slipped and fell approximately ten feet.

10,000-Year-Old Skeleton Found In Bedford Area

Just 30 miles north of here in Bedford County spare-time cave explorers have dug up the remains of a collared lemming, an animal never before seen more than a few hours' scamper below the Arctic Circle.

And the skeleton is 10,000 years old — as the creature lived in this section during the ice age when the polar ice cap pushed into the United States, giving it an arctic climate.

The discovery was made in the New Paris sinkhole, located about ten miles west of Bedford, and north of Shawnee Park.

This has been called the best deposit of bones of the Pleistocene Age in eastern North America.

At the New Paris Sink Hole, the work of unearthing the secrets of the Ice Age has been going on for the past 11 years through a unique partnership of experts from the Carnegie Museum in Pittsburgh and cave-exploring amateurs.

During the past decade, there have been unearth more than 1,200 small animals, the largest an ancient long, legged peccary as big as a medium-sized dog.

Carnegie Museum opined that this animal must have been very young, because this species of peccary grew to be as large as a small horse.

This was the first of the species found this far north, proving that at least one peccary could survive in a cold climate.

Geologists and other scientists say that during the Ice Age the polar cap pushed as far south as a point about 200 miles north of Cumberland.

This created a land that looked like the tree-less, half-frozen tundra does today, bleak and barren, supporting only the hardiest of life.

The New Paris Sink Hole is giving up the whole climate history of this region from the Ice to the present.

John Guilday, assistant curator of Carnegie Museum's Department and Comparative Anatomy, pointed out that as the ice cap retreated the tundra here gave way to tree growth like that now found in northern Canada—mostly spruce, alder, jack pine, birch and fir.

Moving north with the ice went the collard lemming. Much later came forest fires sweeping the news woodland, leaving their ashes in the sinkhole.

This was in the time that the peccary lived in this section.

Thousands of years passed before the forests began to look as they do today in this section, dominated by aspen, oak and maple.

Near present-day 46th Street and the East River in New York City, royalist troops hanged Nathan Hale as a spy.

Woman To Woman

By PATRICIA McCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI) — Holiday party time for parents means rush money-making season for babysitters—some new, some old hands.

In the interest of safe sitting, the accident prevention committee of the American Academy of Pediatrics issues a prescription with a two-way pitch. It's for parents—and sitters.

"Our children are our most precious possession," the child specialists said, "and whoever is entrusted with their care should be well recommended, have mature good judgement, and enjoy children."

Parents are urged to do four things when they find such a sitter and are about to take off for a merry time.

The instructions:

—Tell the baby sitter where you will be and leave the phone number where you can be reached.

—Leave the sitter the phone number of the local police department and the children's doctor.

—Leave EXACT instructions on care of the children, what they are to eat, when they are to go to bed.

—Review with the baby sitter various escape routes in case of fire.

To the sitters, the pediatricians made general and specific instructions. They include:

—Remember that these parents have entrusted you with their most valuable and precious possession. Be sure that your actions justify this faith in you.

—If the children awaken crying, and do not feel feverish, tender, motherly, loving care will usually be successful. If an infant, burping, changing, or feeding may also be needed. If nothing else suffices, call the parents.

—In case of illness or accident, contact the parents immediately and if they are not available, call their doctor. If their doctor is not available, call your own doctor.

—In case of smoke or fire, get the children out of the house immediately. DON'T stop to dress the children or make a phone call. Take the children to the nearest neighbor and then, and only then, call the fire department. Then—call the parents.

—In case you hear a strange noise or sound, remember that usually such noises or sounds may come from the pipes when the heat rises or from a banging shutter. If you cannot identify a sound, call the police—then the parents.

East was the victim of a genuine Houdini act in today's hand.

The final contract of four spades was sound enough, tho most players would prefer to raise to three no trump with the South hand in preference to rebidding spades.

West opened the six of hearts, and East cashed two tricks in that suit. At this point he became remorseful over his failure to double, for with the ten of spades in dummy it appeared physically impossible to prevent his winning two trump tricks. It all seemed like a mirage to East when declarer so skillfully managed his cards as to hold the defense to only one trick in spades.

At trick three East exited with the jack of clubs. Declarer grabbed the ace and then led to the king of spades and received the jarring news that East had what appeared in print to be two sure trump tricks. With a little reflection declarer reached the conclusion that his cause was not utterly hopeless and that the hand could be won if East had to follow to four rounds of diamonds, a remote holding to be sure.

He, therefore, ran the diamond suit and was gratified to learn that East had four diamonds. Declarer discarded his two small clubs and then ruffed a club as East followed. When the ten of hearts was now led from the closed hand and a discard made from dummy, East was down to nothing but spades and ruffed in with the seven. In this position, East holding Q-9-8 of spades was burdened with the lead and could not prevent declarer from taking the balance, because the forced lead of the eight permitted dummy to win with the ten.

Potomac Park Resident Asks Road Repairs

A Potomac Park resident appeared before the Allegany County Board of Commissioners this morning to inquire about the status of a number of roads in that area that have been approved for inclusion in the county's road system.

Joseph Jenkins explained that G Avenue, one of four roadways that are being considered for inclusion in the system, borders on his property.

Fill that has been used to widen the street to county specifications is washing onto his property, Jenkins said, and asked if the county plans to construct a wall in order to prevent the wash in the future.

Commissioners John T. Mason and Louis V. Shinnamon informed Jenkins they would inspect the situation with Harry Skelly, county roads supervisor, and Leslie J. Clark, county attorney, as soon as it can be arranged.

Avenues B, C, F and G were approved for inclusion in the roads system at the December 19 meeting of the board, with the stipulation that they be inspected by the Maryland State Roads Commission in order that it be assured the necessary specifications are being complied with.

Jenkins stressed that he had no intention of blocking the move to have the roads included in the county system, but felt some action should be taken to prevent damage to his property.

The fill, he explained, has been added to widen G Avenue to county specifications. Since it was not tamped, and there is no wall at the base of the fill, Jenkins said the dirt is sliding onto his land.

The discussion was the only matter to be taken up at the abbreviated session.

The board president, John J. Rowan, did not attend the meeting, spokesmen explaining that he had business out-of-town yesterday.

Davis was admitted to Potomac Valley Hospital in Keyser with an injury to his forehead.

Meanwhile, Victor Arthur Livengood, 22, Oldtown, and his wife, Cathy D. Livengood, remain patients in Memorial Hospital where they were admitted following an accident Saturday afternoon on State Route 51, about seven miles east of Cumberland.

The crash occurred when the Livengood car skidded into another vehicle being operated by Leonard P. Fowler, Star Route, Paw Paw.

Mrs. Ruth Shyrock, a passenger in the Livengood auto, was admitted to the hospital following the accident but was released Monday.

Terps Battle Mississippi State Friday

Navy Plays Florida Quint On Thursday

By The Associated Press

It's not the Gator Bowl, and it's not the football team, but University of Maryland partisans will be rooting for their athletes in a bowl game during the holidays anyway.

Play In Sugar Bowl

The Terp basketball team will play in the Sugar Bowl tournament which opens Friday in New Orleans, meeting Mississippi State in the first contest.

The Maryland football team was headed for the Gator Bowl in a post-season game until it lost to Virginia in the final game.

Other basketball teams from Maryland will be competing in holiday games, too.

The University of Baltimore opens the holiday tournament schedule for Maryland teams on Wednesday, meeting Pikeville of Kentucky in the first round of the tournament at Camp Lejeune, N. C.

Maryland State drew a bye in the first round of the NAIA Festival at Jersey City State College Wednesday, and will swing into its first action Thursday.

Defends Gator Title

Navy will defend its Gator Bowl championship starting Thursday against Florida. The tourney is at Jacksonville, Fla.

Morgan State, playing in the Norfolk State classic, also drew a first-round bye and will open Friday.

Loyola College, like Baltimore a member of the Mason-Dixon Conference, will be host to the only holiday tournament in the state. Other teams are Delaware, Muhlenberg and Alsace de Bagnolet, the national champion of France.

Delaware plays Muhlenberg in the first game Friday night and Loyola meets the French team in the second game of the doubleheader. The finals will be Saturday.

ultimately got them to Brunswick. The slow-moving, oft-stopping freight usually takes about nine hours to make the run from Cumberland to Brunswick, a trip negotiated by fast freights in only a few hours.

Among those who stopped at Eddie's house last Saturday were Mr. Edwards, L. S. Yeager, Brunswick, the fireman; G. L. H. Voorhees, Martinsburg, W. Va., conductor; P. E. Foltz, Brunswick, a brakeman; H. A. Snoots, Cumberland, road foreman of engines; Mr. Wharton, J. A. Gross, Cumberland, trainmaster; H. D. Wasson, Fort Ashby, W. Va., conductor, and D. W. Courtney, Great Cacapon, train dispatcher.

Grid Writers Pick Gophers, 69 To 36

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—Football writers, gathered here from around the nation for the Rose Bowl game, Tuesday picked Minnesota as the likely winner.

But the head coaches, Bill Barnes of UCLA and Murray Warmath of Minnesota, played it cozy. Neither would predict or even hint at a score.

The writers voted 69 for the Gophers and 36 for UCLA.

The occasion was a luncheon dedicating the new $360,000 press box, served in the box itself.

Packers Work Out

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP)—The Green Bay Packers, for the first time in weeks, all were present Tuesday as Coach Vince Lombardi blew the whistle for the last week of workouts aiming toward the National Football League championship game against the Giants next Sunday.

Some 200 fans climbed up on the four-foot snow drifts ringing the practice field as the Western Division champions ran through an hour of no-contact drills in 20-degree weather.

The three big guns from the Army — NFL scoring champion Paul Hornung, flanker back Boyd Dowler and linebacker Ray Nitschke—all were on hand.

Home Run Baker's Condition Improved

EASTON, Md. (AP) — Frank (Home Run) Baker continued to improve Tuesday at Easton Memorial Hospital, where he has been undergoing treatment since last Thursday.

The nature of his ailment has not been disclosed.

Baker hit game-winning homers during the 1911 World Series. He played third base for the Philadelphia Athletics and the New York Yankees during his major league baseball career.

He lives at nearby Trappe, Md. Baker was elected to baseball's Hall of Fame in 1955.

Bradley Hands Cornell First Loss

JOLIET, Ill. (UPI)—Bradley breezed to its fifth straight win Tuesday night, 85-59, to hand Cornell its first loss of the season.

Chester Walker paced the Bradley attack with 30 points. He tallied on 14 field goals and a pair of free throws. Joe Strawder was second high for Bradley with 16.

Dome City In Arctic

LONDON (AP)—Moscow radio radio said Tuesday plans have been made to build a town in the Soviet arctic under an enormous dome of transparent plastic to provide good climate the year around.

The CENTENNIAL SCRAPBOOK

The War for the Union 1861-65 in Pictures

No. 87 No one was to have a more exciting and effective position in the Lincoln war Cabinet than Gideon Welles, the Connecticut lawyer and editor who had made the Hartford Times the chief supporter of the Democratic party in the state for nearly three decades. He served the party in various positions—local, state and national before 1861.

Welles, the first outstanding supporter in New England of Andrew Jackson for president, went far beyond the Tennessean in progressivism and eventually became dissatisfied with Jacksonian democracy. He opposed the principle that "to the victors belong the spoils" and condemned legislation that conferred special rights on individuals or groups; he attacked discrimination against persons in courts on religious grounds; he fought against imprisonment for debt and for improved postal service and low postal rates.

With the organization of the Republican party in 1854-55 and its taking an aggressive stand against slavery, Welles turned to it and in 1856 was the first Republican nominee for governor in Connecticut. Though an unsuccessful candidate then, he was influential four years later in gaining Connecticut support for Lincoln.

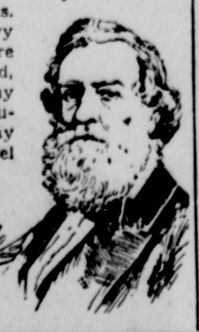

There were more than political reasons for Welles' appointment as Secretary of the Navy. A biographer wrote, "Here his executive ability compensated for his previous lack of special knowledge, and though many of his acts were bitterly criticized, his administration was popular with the Navy and with the people of the North generally." As a matter of fact, Welles had acquired some knowledge of the Navy while effecting in 1846-49 a reorganization of the Navy's bureau of provisions and clothing.

The biographer continued, "Welles' facility as a writer made his state papers more interesting than such documents usually are. In his first report, in July 1861, he announced an increase in the effective naval force from 42 to 82 vessels. This and the subsequent increase in a few months to more than 500 vessels was largely due to his energy."

The Navy had been turning away Timby, Ellet and others with proposals for ironclads, revolving turrets and further improvements. Welles effected the rapid construction of ironclads for the ocean-going and river fleets, and authorized the adoption in the Monitor and other ships of the long neglected revolving turret. The Navy built up by Welles was to make possible, through blockading and its own aggressive operations in rivers and against Southern ports, the defeat of the Rebel armies.

Due to Welles the Navy began integration before the Army; he ordered, Sept. 25, 1861, that any able-bodied Negro refugees who found their way to a U. S. Navy vessel should be enlisted.

Volunteer Firemen Have 93 Pieces Of Equipment

Volunteer fire companies in Allegany and Garrett counties possess a total of 93 pieces of fire fighting equipment, it was announced in an insurance coverage report to the Allegany-Garrett County Volunteer Firemen's Association.

Corriganville firemen have the largest number of pieces with six, while there are numerous others in the 31-unit association with four.

Following are the companies with four pieces of equipment: Frostburg, Barton, Bowling Green, Oakland, LaVale, Cresaptown, Midland, Kitzmiller, Grantsville and Flintstone.

Those with three are District 16, Clarysville, McCoole, Bowman's Addition, Deer Park, Bedford Road, Ellerslie, Westernport, Mt. Savage, Shaft, and Lonaconing.

Companies with two are Bloomington, Accident, Tri-Towns, Baltimore Pike, Friendsville, and Gorman.

Seventy pieces of the equipment are owned by Allegany County companies, while the other 23 are in Garrett company possession.

Birds do not usually begin incubating their eggs until the full complement has been laid. Otherwise the resulting young would be of different ages and sizes, and the larger ones would get all the food.

Volunteer Firemen Have 93 Pieces Of Equipment

Volunteer fire companies in Allegany and Garrett counties possess a total of 93 pieces of fire fighting equipment, it was announced in an insurance coverage report to the Allegany-Garrett County Volunteer Firemen's Association.

Corriganville firemen have the largest number of pieces with six, while there are numerous others in the 31-unit association with four.

Following are the companies with four pieces of equipment: Frostburg, Barton, Bowling Green, Oakland, LaVale, Cresaptown, Midland, Kitzmiller, Grantsville and Flintstone.

Those with three are District 16, Clarysville, McCoole, Bowman's Addition, Deer Park, Bedford Road, Ellerslie, Westernport, Mt. Savage, Shaft, and Lonaconing.

Seventy pieces of the equipment are owned by Allegany County companies, while the other 23 are in Garrett company possession.

Birds do not usually begin incubating their eggs until the full complement has been laid. Otherwise the resulting young would be of different ages and sizes, and the larger ones would get all the food.

A Dispute Over Simple Economics

George Meany's support of President Kennedy's economic programs has shrunk in one week from "1,000 per cent" to "998 per cent." A closer analysis of the remarks of the AFL-CIO president shows that his backing may have to be further revised several percentage points downward.

In a televised interview, Meany said he opposed the administration's plan to submit a balanced budget for next year because it would be "too much of a blow to the economy." The Kennedy-Meany cleavage appears to be just as wide on the question of wage increases.

The administration's position has been for raises only if warranted by accompanying increases in productivity. Meany, however, holds productivity is only one of many factors, and that even lack of company earnings is no drawback to a raise if certain pay "inequities" exist.

In many industries it takes as much as $50,000 in plant and machinery to put just one man at work. Unless stockholders can be assured of a fair return, they will not invest. And if there's no investment, there's no plant and machinery. And there are no jobs.

These Days

An Inflated Ego

Mrs. H. C. Brote of Covington, Louisiana, desires an inflated ego and has the courage to write to an editor to ask for one. It is a very good idea. No tonic does better than an inflated ego. I am I. That is terrific.

However, don't get me wrong. Mrs. Brote does not wish an inflated ego for herself. She wants it for the United States. She just cannot help feeling that an American is as good as a Congolese or Katangese or an Indochinese or even a Russian. She denies racial superiority and is sure that no Uzbeg is superior to an American. Stalin was a Georgian and Khrushchev is an Ukrainian (Ukrainians are requested not to write denying the Landsmannschaft as my files are full of such letters). But we, to go back to where this sentence started, are Americans and if anyone dares to say that we are not the Chosen People, ahead of all else, we shall punch them square on the nose.

Mrs. Brote wrote:

"We hear a great deal about Russian superiority because the Russians plan it that way. We are frightfully impressed by the fact that chess is their national pastime. To play chess, after a fashion, does not require any more intelligence than bridge, baseball or football. We know that the Russians constantly fail in the realm of agriculture. Our farmers are more impressive than their chess players. I have read that their run of the mill doctors are comparable to our hospital orderlies and their engineers build roads that sink into the jungle while ours succeed."

I know nothing about the value of chess in establishing the superiority of a man. It is an old game that originated in India and my only interest is in chessmen made of ivory or jade that fetch quite a price in any flea market. I do not go in for games, indoor or outdoor, having long ago discovered that all forms of physical effort are not beneficial for either the mind or the body. Myself I prefer sitting exercises and use my eyes and ears most frequently.

As for whether playing chess requires less or greater intelligence than playing bridge, football or baseball, I must leave that to Mrs. Brote. I have never played bridge but have watched others at it and it seems to me to be a stimulant for divorce. As for baseball and football, only now, in my ancient years, do I go to such frivolities, my Democratic friend, Jim Farley, taking me to sit with him, the value of my presence being that some Democrats might believe that if James Aloysius Farley were nominated to run for Governor of New York State against Nelson Rockefeller, some Republicans might vote for him—which is not to be sneezed at.

If any Americans base their superiority upon popularity of bridge over chess, it might be called to their attention that it was a White Russian, Ely Culbertson, who earned a living telling Americans how to play the game. Culbertson never lost his Russian accent, but his father was originally an American engineer in Russia.

Mrs. Brote knows that the Russians always fail in agriculture which is much more than I know, for way back in the time of the Caesars in Rome, Russia was the bread-basket of Europe and the reason that the Latins go in for so much bread and pasta is that they found so much wheat in Russia.

The misery of misinformation is that language mixes us all up. Russian medical terms come from the German and a Russian doctor may be called by all sorts of names; nevertheless, Mrs. Brote forgets that Russia existed before Lenin was born and Metchnikoff lived before the Smolny Institute ceased being a girls' academy and became the citadel of Marxism. It is wrong to believe that the other fellow knows nothing at all when the fact is that he has more than 1,000 years of valid history. One does not have to like the Russian to tell the truth about him. In fact, Maxim Gorki, who loved Russia, told some horrible tales about the Russians.

Well, it is of value to know these little items and I am sure that Ely Culbertson, in whatever heaven he is, will be happy that an old friend remembered him in the Christmas season.

Senator Dodd, Friend Of Johnson, Undermines President In Africa

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Good old Lyndon, the Vice President, is always loyal to his friends, but some of his other friends around the White House wish he wouldn't overdo it.

The Democrat who has caused the Kennedy administration most trouble lately is Sen. Tom Dodd of Connecticut, sometimes called the Democrats' "bargain basement Joe McCarthy." One reason he has caused trouble is the fact that Vice President Johnson insisted that Dodd be put on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee last year despite the fact he lacked seniority and despite the fact Sen. Joe Clark of Pennsylvania was in line for the vacancy.

Clark, however, had not backed Johnson for President, while Dodd had been for Johnson and against a man named Kennedy for the Democratic nomination.

It so happens that Tom Dodd is the only Senator who was once a registered foreign agent, having been paid at the rate of $50,000 a year by the Guatemalan government after he left the House of Representatives and up until one day before he entered the Senate. Foreign agents are not the most unprejudiced people to appoint to the supposedly unprejudiced foreign relations committee, and Dodd showed his prejudice by once offering a $5,000,000 amendment to the foreign aid bill for Guatemala. But Johnson pushed Dodd into the post anyway.

This spot on the Foreign Relations Committee gave Dodd authority to go to Africa a few weeks ago where he proceeded to undermine the policy of his own Democratic President.

Behind Dodd's Speeches

First he made a full-dress speech on the Senate floor attacking his own administration's position in the Congo. Significantly this speech was published in Elisabethville, capital of Katanga, a few hours before it was delivered in the Senate. It has been learned that a representative of the "Katanga Information Center" in New York is a frequent visitor in Senator Dodd's office and that private planes have carried statements and speeches for Dodd from the information center in New York.

Later Senator Dodd went to the Congo and in a series of talks with President Tshombe he told the breakaway Congo leader that the State Department was influenced by Communists, and proceeded to encourage him to stand firm against the United Nations.

Meanwhile President Kennedy was throwing the full weight of his administration behind the United Nations.

At one point, Ed Gullion, U. S. Ambassador to the Congo, got Kennedy on the trans-Atlantic phone to tell him that President Tshombe wouldn't meet with him because Senator Dodd had convinced Tshombe that the State Department was influenced by Communists.

In addition, Senator Dodd went on the Katanga radio and broadcast a flattering tribute to President Tshombe, the man whom Dodd's fellow Democrat in the White House was opposing. This was heard all over Africa and monitored by foreign governments.

Finally, the Senator from Connecticut whom Lyndon Johnson put in the key spot where he could make trouble, came back to the U. S. and enlisted the support of the No. 1 elder statesman of the Republican Party, Herbert Hoover. Hoover, who once worked for British mining interests in the Far East, proceeded to issue a blast against the Kennedy administration's position in the Congo.

All this happened just as Ambassador Gullion was trying to persuade Tshombe to negotiate with Premier Adoula of the Congo.

High Cost Of Haircuts

Members of Congress and their families can get haircuts in the 75s cents each. Elsewhere in Washington they cost $1.75.

When Edward Garcia tried to sell one-dollar haircuts at Coral Hills, Md., just across from the Capital, Charles Bovella, head of Barbers Union Local 239, protested. He protested so persistently and vigorously that Garcia finally pushed him out of his shop. The union leader retaliated by issuing an order for his arrest.

Those who can't get the benefit of cheap haircuts on Capitol Hill are watching to see whether the Maryland police side with cheaper or higher priced haircuts.

Behind The Crimes

Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy's crackdown on gambling has put the racing wire service out of business. Betting on the horses has come to a virtual standstill, except at the race tracks. . . . Kennedy has sent a task force to Pittsburgh, Pa., to knock out the Mannarino mob which runs the gambling dives and vice houses in near-by New Kensington. . . . He also has his eye on Miami where the big-time gamblers have flocked for the winter. They are busy at their favorite sport in the backrooms of Miami Beach. . . . At Kennedy's instigation, Senate Rackets Chairman John McClellan has subpoenaed cabaret proprietors from Chicago, Baltimore, and other sin centers. He is investigating their connections with gambling, white slavery, narcotics and other rackets. . . . The Justice Department will follow up McClellan's closed-door hearings with swift, vigorous prosecution. . . . McClellan has overlooked one sin center, however, in his own home state. Gambling and vice are flourishing in Hot Springs, Ark., without the slightest interference from McClellan's investigators.

New Design To Regain Margin Of Deterrence

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON — Virtually no attention is being paid to the recent massive increase in the Soviet military effort. Yet the facts are fairly startling.

The published Soviet military budget has risen, this year, by over 50 per-cent—as against a 20 per cent rise in the U.S. defense spending. The figures the Soviets publish are intentionally misleading, of course, but the percentage of increase is thought to be a crudely accurate measure of the additional effort being made.

Part of the rise in Soviet defense spending is easily explained by the quiet nullification of Nikita S. Khrushchev's plan, once so loudly trumpeted, to reduce the Soviet armed forces by 1,250,000 men. The plan was not a fake. It was being carried out. But the reductions in force that had been made have now been cancelled but, by call-ups of reservists and extensions of terms of service of men already in uniform.

In the opinion of the experts, however, the item on the Soviet military list that has been upped most sharply is spending on intercontinental ballistic missiles. "We must now expect the Soviets to make a maximum effort to produce their second generation ICBMs," is the way one high authority put the official view.

Unlike the American Minuteman missiles, the Soviets' second generation intercontinental missiles are still liquid fuelled. They appear to have much the same characteristics — a non-volatile, permanent storable fuel, probably of the hydrazine family, and substantially improved guidance—of the most advanced U. S. liquid-fuelled missile, the Titan II. In early tests, they were not reliable. But they are now rated as very formidable weapons.

If maximum production of these new Soviet ICBMs has indeed been ordered, this is a new development of utmost significance. It contrasts with the unexpected and still mysterious failure of the Soviets to produce their first generation of long range missiles in serious quantities. This failure is the key to the present state of the nuclear balance.

The Soviets did not go all out after their first successful ICBM test, but they mass produced their medium range ballistic missiles. Thus the local, European nuclear balance is now favorable to the Kremlin because of the Soviets' MRBMs, while the world balance, between the U.S. and the U.S.S.R., is favorable to the U.S. because of the limited number of Soviet ICBMs. The favorable world-wide balance is the main protection of Berlin. All-out production of ICBMs, to upset the world balance, is the obvious Soviet riposte to the relative firmness shown at Berlin by the Western leadership.

It is also a sharp challenge to the U.S. The President has now acecpted the challenge, by rejecting schemes for a quite modest, purely retaliatory deterrent, and approving the powerful deterrent-design proposed by Secretary of defense Robert McNamara. As already reported, the U.S. is to have at least—800 and perhaps 1,200 Minuteman missiles and 41 missile-firing Polaris submarines by the end of 1965, plus a considerable striking potential in liquid-fuelled ICBMs, plus some surviving long range bomber wings. As was also indicated in another prior report basic changes of theory can now take place in basic policy-areas without causing any vast governmental commotion. Under President Kennedy the procedures of the National Security Council, and all the other processes of decision-making, have become much more pragmatic. Theory, as such, is little discussed. Thus a change of theory can be made without being articulated.

The McNamara design for the deterrent clearly suggests just this kind of unspoken but basic change in the crucial theory of the nuclear deterrent. The former theory of President Eisenhower was that the U. S. would "never strike first" with nuclear weapons. Because of this theory, the formerly vast U.S. margin of nuclear striking power was allowed to erode, and the Kremlin was even permitted to gain the local nuclear advantage in Europe which is now the most troubling feature in the world's strategic picture.

But the Eisenhower theory of "never strike first" was also a major innovation. The thory of the deterrent during the Truman administration called for a decisive American margin in nuclear striking power. President Eisenhower inherited just such a margin from President Truman, even though the problem of missiles had not been well understood in the Truman years.

No such theory of a great margin of nuclear striking power was left to President Kennedy by President Eisenhower. Yet it seems clear that the new McNamara design for the nuclear deterrent represents an attempt to regain a margin. The new margin, even if achieved, can hardly be so great as the old one was. But if the McNamara design succeeds, the U.S. may again possess a much more effective deterrent, which will again be capable of discouraging such ventures as the Soviet attempt to grab Berlin.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

STATUE TROUBLE—Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall, who has had his difficulties with human beings in the political arena, is now in the midst of a campaign against statues—particularly statues in the District of Columbia.

Recently, he found he had made an error in mourning the absence of a statue in Washington which was there all the time. A short while ago, he permitted a Washington based statue of William Jennings Bryan to be shipped to Salem, Ill., and ran into hot criticism.

His most recent foray into the world of marble and pedestals was to attempt to get rid of a statue of Dr. Benjamin Rush, now standing on the grounds of the Navy Bureau of Medicine and Surgery. Udall's move was roundly opposed by the local Fine Arts Commission.

However, the intrepid scaler of Mt. Fujiyama is undaunted. He has carried his war to Congress, asking for creation of a "memorial board" to evaluate statues before they are erected in Washington.

"It is evident," says Udall, "that if the concept of open space and dignity is to be preserved in the face of constant pressures to use the land for memorials, each proposal must be carefully evaluated."

Udall's hope is that a board appointed by the administration will be guided, at least in part, by Udall's views on statuary.

TREES — Future generations visiting the Capitol may some day be able to see an oak tree produced by the tree which inspired the poet Joyce Kilmer and made him an immortal.

Kilmer was the author of the poem "Trees," whose line, "Poems are made by fools like me, but only God can make a tree," is known by everybody. The tree that inspired Kilmer's words stands on the Rutgers campus in his home town of New Brunswick, N. J.

The Capitol architect has accepted some seedlings grown from the acorns of the New Brunswick oak and will keep them in a nursery until they are large enough to plant on the Capitol grounds.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

The 27th is the feast of St. John the Evangelist. You don't hear much about it because it comes in Christmas week. Still, he was quite a young man, in many ways brighter than Peter. If it is true that Peter was all heart, then John can be described as all head.

His father was Zebedee, and his brother was St. James the Greater. They were a fishing family from upper Galilee, men with hair in long ringlets, skin like smooth molasses on a pine board, dark eyes and strong hands. When Jesus selected the brothers as apostles, he called them "boanerges," which means Sons of Thunder.

This sounds as though James and John were loud—if not effective—in their missionary work. John was very young, probably not more than 18 when he dropped a fishing net to follow Christ. Many years later, when John wrote his gospel, he referred to himself with some humility as "the one whom Jesus loved", without mentioning a name.

At the Last Supper, it was John who leaned against the breast of Jesus and asked which one had betrayed him. Peter wanted to konw, and it seems certain that he didn't have the nerve to ask. So he requested young John to pose the question. The kid was so sure of himself that he leaned against the breast of the Master to ask. And Jesus said: "It is he with whom I shall dip bread", and he dipped with Judas.

Of the 12, John was also chosen to go into the city with Peter to prepare the Last Supper. He had confidence and intelligence. It was he alone among the apostles who dared to enter the courtyard of Caiaphas, when Jesus was arrested. He alone stood at the foot of the cross when Jesus murmured: "Woman, behold Thy son" and "Son, behold thy mother." No other apostle was there.

The youngster was also first at the sepulchre on Easter Sunday morning, but he waited for Peter before entering the empty grave. He was privileged to treat the Blessed Mother as his natural mother until her death.

He preached in Jerusalem, healed a cripple, suffered arrest, conferred with Paul, who never saw Jesus, and then John went on into Asia Minor to preach The Word. He lived a long time and was tried in many ways.

John had what we call drive. He never faltered. If, as I feel, he was born around A. D. 10, then it is certain that in A. D. 96 he returned to Ephesus and wrote his gospel.

In all new testaments, Matthew's word comes first; then Mark's, then Luke's, and, last, John's. Of the four, if I am permitted a choice, I would rather reread John's words then the others, Because John—as a good reporter should—wrote all his recollections in chronological order. His preface is a masterpiece of structure:

"These things are written that you may believe that Jesus is The Christ, the Son of God; and that, believing, you may have life in His Name."

John is also a personal favorite of mine for another reason. He had true charity. One of his converts renounced Christianity and became a brigand. John remembered the man when he was old. He went alone into the hills to find the bandit, who started to run when he saw St. John.

"Child," said John, "why do you run from me, your father, unarmed, and an old man? There is time for repentance. I will answer for you to Jesus Christ. I am ready to lay down my life for you. I am sent by Christ." The bandit stopped running and burst into tears. In the name of one solitary worthless sinner, John refused to leave the hills until he had resaved the thief.

He grew so old and feeble that he could no longer walk or preach. His followers used to carry him to the gatherings and he would raise his arms in supplication and cry hoarsely: "My little children, love one another."

Someone asked why he repeated the monotony of six words. St. John said: "Because it is the word of Thy Lord, and if you keep it you do enough." This represents not only a Christian concept of living, but an entire code of ethics for all mankind.

There is a poular fiction that John did not die; that he just "disappeared." no one knows, but there is reason to believe that he died in the city of Ephesus at the age of 94, and was buried there.

He is a good man to imitate. John had a good mind, enormous faith, and limitless charity in the face of errors on the part of his brethren.

He is overshadowed of course, this week. But his feast day is the 27th. John is worth remembering . . .

Voodoo, Syndromes, And Breadth Variation

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Someone always is shattering our illusions. A Boston psychologist now tells us that voodoo deaths cannot occur directly from sticking pins into an effigy of an enemy. After studying the literature on deaths by sorcery, he concluded that some of these fatalities were due to poisoning or to organic causes. Other victims, believing they were hexed, stopped eating and drinking and died of starvation and dehydration. If this isnt black magic, what is?

A syndrome is a set of symptoms or signs that occurs together. Meniere's syndrome, for example, consists of dizziness, deafness, and ear noises. There are hundreds of other syndromes and one of my favorites is the Alice in Wonderland. This little lady, as we know, dreamed she assumed unusual sizes and shapes and the size and position of objects often were bizarre.

Alice was puzzled about her identity and dual personality. These psychic changes occur in intoxication with certain drugs, in delirium due to fever, and in schizophrenia. Physicians long have considered that Alice's creator, Lewis Carroll, was mirroring his own experiences during attacks of migraine.

I have written about this syndrome before but the reason I bring it up again is that there is a movement afoot to call the condition "the depersonalization syndrome." There goe my favorite term into an impersonal category.

What is the broadest part of a seated person? It is the distance between the elbows when they are held close to the body—and not what you thought. The breadth varies according to age and sex. This information is not important unless you are designing furniture, clothing, farm and industrial equipment, aircraft, or other products in which efficiency and comfort are needed.

The measurements are being made by a team of public health examiners. These men are going around the country collecting statistics mainly on the prevalence of heart disease and arthritis, the degree of visual and hearing acuity, the blood pressure levels, and dimensions of the American physique. Perhaps they have been in your neighborhood—if so, your measurements will contribute not only to the health aspects of the survey but also to the size of your next chair.

TOMORROW. How penicillin works.

RADIOACTIVE PEOPLE

D. R. writes: Is it possible to become radioactive, and if so, how would it affect a person?

REPLY

All of us have traces of radioactivity in the body from the natural background — but not enough to glow in the dark.

NOT AN ALLERGY

J. D. writes: Should a person with psoriasis on his ankles go through skin tests to find out whether allergy is the cause?

REPLY

INFECTED KIDNEYS

G. L. H. writes. What is the cause of a kidney infection?

REPLY

Bacteria or viruses. There are a dozen or more different types of kidney infection. In general, the micro-organisms reach the organs from below (the bladder) or via the blood stream. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on pyelitis.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

Somerset Maugham explained in one short sentence why writers, actors, and producers are never completely pleased when one of their contemporaries registers a smash hit. "We authors," Mr. Maugham told a reporter, "like to see a friend get ahead, but, my dear fellow, not out of sight!"

An actress applied for a role that called for a charming, seductive young matron. "You're too old for a part like this," scoffed the manager. "I am nothing of the kind," snapped the actress, "and I'll prove it to you. I was 17 when I married and my husband was 35. Now he's 70 and that's just twice what he was then. That makes me 34."

P. S. She did NOT get the job.

A Dispute Over Simple Economics

George Meany's support of President Kennedy's economic programs has shrunk in one week from "1,000 per cent" to "998 per cent." A closer analysis of the remarks of the AFL-CIO president shows that his backing may have to be further revised several percentage points downward.

In a televised interview, Meany said he opposed the administration's plan to submit a balanced budget for next year because it would be "too much of a blow to the economy." The Kennedy-Meany cleavage appears to be just as wide on the question of wage increases.

The administration's position has been for raises only if warranted by accompanying increases in productivity. Meany, however, holds productivity is only one of many factors, and that even lack of company earnings is no drawback to a raise if certain pay "inequities" exist.

In many industries it takes as much as $50,000 in plant and machinery to put just one man at work. Unless stockholders can be assured of a fair return, they will not invest. And if there's no investment, there's no plant and machinery. And there are no jobs.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

An Inflated Ego

Mrs. H. C. Brote of Covington, Louisiana, desires an inflated ego and has the courage to write to an editor to ask for one. It is a very good idea. No tonic does better than an inflated ego. I am I. That is terrific.

However, don't get me wrong. Mrs. Brote does not wish an inflated ego for herself. She wants it for the United States. She just cannot help feeling that an American is as good as a Congolese or Katangese or an Indochinese or even a Russian. She denies racial superiority and is sure that no Uzbeg is superior to an American. Stalin was a Georgian and Khrushchev is an Ukrainian (Ukrainians are requested not to write denying the Landsmannschaft as my files are full of such letters). But we, to go back to where this sentence started, are Americans and if anyone dares to say that we are not the Chosen People, ahead of all else, we shall punch them square on the nose.

Mrs. Brote wrote:

"We hear a great deal about Russian superiority because the Russians plan it that way. We are frightfully impressed by the fact that chess is their national pastime. To play chess, after a fashion, does not require any more intelligence than bridge, baseball or football. We know that the Russians constantly fail in the realm of agriculture. Our farmers are more impressive than their chess players. I have read that their run of the mill doctors are comparable to our hospital orderlies and their engineers build roads that sink into the jungle while ours succeed."

I know nothing about the value of chess in establishing the superiority of a man. It is an old game that originated in India and my only interest is in chessmen made of ivory or jade that fetch quite a price in any flea market. I do not go in for games, indoor or outdoor, having long ago discovered that all forms of physical effort are not beneficial for either the mind or the body. Myself I prefer sitting exercises and use my eyes and ears most frequently.

As for whether playing chess requires less or greater intelligence than playing bridge, football or baseball, I must leave that to Mrs. Brote. I have never played bridge but have watched others at it and it seems to me to be a stimulant for divorce. As for baseball and football, only now, in my ancient years, do I go to such frivolities, my Democratic friend, Jim Farley, taking me to sit with him, the value of my presence being that some Democrats might believe that if James Aloysius Farley were nominated to run for Governor of New York State against Nelson Rockefeller, some Republicans might vote for him—which is not to be sneezed at.

If any Americans base their superiority upon popularity of bridge over chess, it might be called to their attention that it was a White Russian, Ely Culbertson, who earned a living telling Americans how to play the game. Culbertson never lost his Russian accent, but his father was originally an American engineer in Russia.

Mrs. Brote knows that the Russians always fail in agriculture which is much more than I know, for way back in the time of the Caesars in Rome, Russia was the bread-basket of Europe and the reason that the Latins go in for so much bread and pasta is that they found so much wheat in Russia.

The misery of misinformation is that language mixes us all up. Russian medical terms come from the German and a Russian doctor may be called by all sorts of names; nevertheless, Mrs. Brote forgets that Russia existed before Lenin was born and Metchnikoff lived before the Smolny Institute ceased being a girls' academy and became the citadel of Marxism. It is wrong to believe that the other fellow knows nothing at all when the fact is that he has more than 1,000 years of valid history. One does not have to like the Russian to tell the truth about him. In fact, Maxim Gorki, who loved Russia, told some horrible tales about the Russians.

Well, it is of value to know these little items and I am sure that Ely Culbertson, in whatever heaven he is, will be happy that an old friend remembered him in the Christmas season.

'Convince Congress He's A Harvard Man?'

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Good old Lyndon, the Vice President, is always loyal to his friends, but some of his other friends around the White House wish he wouldn't overdo it.

The Democrat who has caused the Kennedy administration most trouble lately is Sen. Tom Dodd of Connecticut, sometimes called the Democrats' "bargain basement Joe McCarthy." One reason he has caused trouble is the fact that Vice President Johnson insisted that Dodd be put on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee last year despite the fact he lacked seniority and despite the fact Sen. Joe Clark of Pennsylvania was in line for the vacancy.

Clark, however, had not backed Johnson for President, while Dodd had been for Johnson and against a man named Kennedy for the Democratic nomination.

It so happens that Tom Dodd is the only Senator who was once a registered foreign agent, having been paid at the rate of $50,000 a year by the Guatemalan government after he left the House of Representatives and up until one day before he entered the Senate. Foreign agents are not the most unprejudiced people to appoint to the supposedly unprejudiced foreign relations committee, and Dodd showed his prejudice by once offering a $5,000,000 amendment to the foreign aid bill for Guatemala. But Johnson pushed Dodd into the post anyway.

This spot on the Foreign Relations Committee gave Dodd authority to go to Africa a few weeks ago where he proceeded to undermine the policy of his own Democratic President.

Behind Dodd's Speeches

First he made a full-dress speech on the Senate floor attacking his own administration's position in the Congo. Significantly this speech was published in Elisabethville, capital of Katanga, a few hours before it was delivered in the Senate. It has been learned that a representative of the "Katanga Information Center" in New York is a frequent visitor in Senator Dodd's office and that private planes have carried statements and speeches for Dodd from the information center in New York.

Later Senator Dodd went to the Congo and in a series of talks with President Tshombe he told the breakaway Congo leader that the State Department was influenced by Communists, and proceeded to encourage him to stand firm against the United Nations.

At one point, Ed Gullion, U. S. Ambassador to the Congo, got Kennedy on the trans-Atlantic phone to tell him that President Tshombe wouldn't meet with him because Senator Dodd had convinced Tshombe that the State Department was influenced by Communists.

In addition, Senator Dodd went on the Katanga radio and broadcast a flattering tribute to President Tshombe, the man whom Dodd's fellow Democrat in the White House was opposing. This was heard all over Africa and monitored by foreign governments.

Finally, the Senator from Connecticut whom Lyndon Johnson put in the key spot where he could make trouble, came back to the U. S. and enlisted the support of the No. 1 elder statesman of the Republican Party, Herbert Hoover. Hoover, who once worked for British mining interests in the Far East, proceeded to issue a blast against the Kennedy administration's position in the Congo.

All this happened just as Ambassador Gullion was trying to persuade Tshombe to negotiate with Premier Adoula of the Congo.

High Cost Of Haircuts

Members of Congress and their families can get haircuts in the 75s cents each. Elsewhere in Washington they cost $1.75.

When Edward Garcia tried to sell one-dollar haircuts at Coral Hills, Md., just across from the Capital, Charles Bovella, head of Barbers Union Local 239, protested. He protested so persistently and vigorously that Garcia finally pushed him out of his shop. The union leader retaliated by issuing an order for his arrest.

Those who can't get the benefit of cheap haircuts on Capitol Hill are watching to see whether the Maryland police side with cheaper or higher priced haircuts.

Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy's crackdown on gambling has put the racing wire service out of business. Betting on the horses has come to a virtual standstill, except at the race tracks. . . . Kennedy has sent a task force to Pittsburgh, Pa., to knock out the Mannarino mob which runs the gambling dives and vice houses in near-by New Kensington. . . . He also has his eye on Miami where the big-time gamblers have flocked for the winter. They are busy at their favorite sport in the backrooms of Miami Beach. . . . At Kennedy's instigation, Senate Rackets Chairman John McClellan has subpoenaed cabaret proprietors from Chicago, Baltimore, and other sin centers. He is investigating their connections with gambling, white slavery, narcotics and other rackets. . . . The Justice Department will follow up McClellan's closed-door hearings with swift, vigorous prosecution. . . . McClellan has overlooked one sin center, however, in his own home state. Gambling and vice are flourishing in Hot Springs, Ark., without the slightest interference from McClellan's investigators.

New Design To Regain Margin Of Deterrence

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON — Virtually no attention is being paid to the recent massive increase in the Soviet military effort. Yet the facts are fairly startling.

The published Soviet military budget has risen, this year, by over 50 per-cent—as against a 20 per cent rise in the U.S. defense spending. The figures the Soviets publish are intentionally misleading, of course, but the percentage of increase is thought to be a crudely accurate measure of the additional effort being made.

Part of the rise in Soviet defense spending is easily explained by the quiet nullification of Nikita S. Khrushchev's plan, once so loudly trumpeted, to reduce the Soviet armed forces by 1,250,000 men. The plan was not a fake. It was being carried out. But the reductions in force that had been made have now been cancelled but, by call-ups of reservists and extensions of terms of service of men already in uniform.

In the opinion of the experts, however, the item on the Soviet military list that has been upped most sharply is spending on intercontinental ballistic missiles. "We must now expect the Soviets to make a maximum effort to produce their second generation ICBMs," is the way one high authority put the official view.

Unlike the American Minuteman missiles, the Soviets' second generation intercontinental missiles are still liquid fuelled. They appear to have much the same characteristics — a non-volatile, permanent storable fuel, probably of the hydrazine family, and substantially improved guidance—of the most advanced U. S. liquid-fuelled missile, the Titan II. In early tests, they were not reliable. But they are now rated as very formidable weapons.

If maximum production of these new Soviet ICBMs has indeed been ordered, this is a new development of utmost significance. It contrasts with the unexpected and still mysterious failure of the Soviets to produce their first generation of long range missiles in serious quantities. This failure is the key to the present state of the nuclear balance.

The Soviets did not go all out after their first successful ICBM test, but they mass produced their medium range ballistic missiles. Thus the local, European nuclear balance is now favorable to the Kremlin because of the Soviets' MRBMs, while the world balance, between the U.S. and the U.S.S.R., is favorable to the U.S. because of the limited number of Soviet ICBMs. The favorable world-wide balance is the main protection of Berlin. All-out production of ICBMs, to upset the world balance, is the obvious Soviet riposte to the relative firmness shown at Berlin by the Western leadership.

It is also a sharp challenge to the U.S. The President has now acecpted the challenge, by rejecting schemes for a quite modest, purely retaliatory deterrent, and approving the powerful deterrent-design proposed by Secretary of defense Robert McNamara. As already reported, the U.S. is to have at least—800 and perhaps 1,200 Minuteman missiles and 41 missile-firing Polaris submarines by the end of 1965, plus a considerable striking potential in liquid-fuelled ICBMs, plus some surviving long range bomber wings. As was also indicated in another prior report basic changes of theory can now take place in basic policy-areas without causing any vast governmental commotion. Under President Kennedy the procedures of the National Security Council, and all the other processes of decision-making, have become much more pragmatic. Theory, as such, is little discussed. Thus a change of theory can be made without being articulated.

The McNamara design for the deterrent clearly suggests just this kind of unspoken but basic change in the crucial theory of the nuclear deterrent. The former theory of President Eisenhower was that the U. S. would "never strike first" with nuclear weapons. Because of this theory, the formerly vast U.S. margin of nuclear striking power was allowed to erode, and the Kremlin was even permitted to gain the local nuclear advantage in Europe which is now the most troubling feature in the world's strategic picture.

But the Eisenhower theory of "never strike first" was also a major innovation. The thory of the deterrent during the Truman administration called for a decisive American margin in nuclear striking power. President Eisenhower inherited just such a margin from President Truman, even though the problem of missiles had not been well understood in the Truman years.

No such theory of a great margin of nuclear striking power was left to President Kennedy by President Eisenhower. Yet it seems clear that the new McNamara design for the nuclear deterrent represents an attempt to regain a margin. The new margin, even if achieved, can hardly be so great as the old one was. But if the McNamara design succeeds, the U.S. may again possess a much more effective deterrent, which will again be capable of discouraging such ventures as the Soviet attempt to grab Berlin.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

STATUE TROUBLE—Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall, who has had his difficulties with human beings in the political arena, is now in the midst of a campaign against statues—particularly statues in the District of Columbia.

Recently, he found he had made an error in mourning the absence of a statue in Washington which was there all the time. A short while ago, he permitted a Washington based statue of William Jennings Bryan to be shipped to Salem, Ill., and ran into hot criticism.

His most recent foray into the world of marble and pedestals was to attempt to get rid of a statue of Dr. Benjamin Rush, now standing on the grounds of the Navy Bureau of Medicine and Surgery. Udall's move was roundly opposed by the local Fine Arts Commission.

However, the intrepid scaler of Mt. Fujiyama is undaunted. He has carried his war to Congress, asking for creation of a "memorial board" to evaluate statues before they are erected in Washington.

"It is evident," says Udall, "that if the concept of open space and dignity is to be preserved in the face of constant pressures to use the land for memorials, each proposal must be carefully evaluated."

Udall's hope is that a board appointed by the administration will be guided, at least in part, by Udall's views on statuary.

TREES — Future generations visiting the Capitol may some day be able to see an oak tree produced by the tree which inspired the poet Joyce Kilmer and made him an immortal.

Kilmer was the author of the poem "Trees," whose line, "Poems are made by fools like me, but only God can make a tree," is known by everybody. The tree that inspired Kilmer's words stands on the Rutgers campus in his home town of New Brunswick, N. J.

The Capitol architect has accepted some seedlings grown from the acorns of the New Brunswick oak and will keep them in a nursery until they are large enough to plant on the Capitol grounds.

The 27th is the feast of St. John the Evangelist. You don't hear much about it because it comes in Christmas week. Still, he was quite a young man, in many ways brighter than Peter. If it is true that Peter was all heart, then John can be described as all head.

His father was Zebedee, and his brother was St. James the Greater. They were a fishing family from upper Galilee, men with hair in long ringlets, skin like smooth molasses on a pine board, dark eyes and strong hands. When Jesus selected the brothers as apostles, he called them "boanerges," which means Sons of Thunder.

This sounds as though James and John were loud—if not effective—in their missionary work. John was very young, probably not more than 18 when he dropped a fishing net to follow Christ. Many years later, when John wrote his gospel, he referred to himself with some humility as "the one whom Jesus loved", without mentioning a name.

At the Last Supper, it was John who leaned against the breast of Jesus and asked which one had betrayed him. Peter wanted to konw, and it seems certain that he didn't have the nerve to ask. So he requested young John to pose the question. The kid was so sure of himself that he leaned against the breast of the Master to ask. And Jesus said: "It is he with whom I shall dip bread", and he dipped with Judas.

Of the 12, John was also chosen to go into the city with Peter to prepare the Last Supper. He had confidence and intelligence. It was he alone among the apostles who dared to enter the courtyard of Caiaphas, when Jesus was arrested. He alone stood at the foot of the cross when Jesus murmured: "Woman, behold Thy son" and "Son, behold thy mother." No other apostle was there.

The youngster was also first at the sepulchre on Easter Sunday morning, but he waited for Peter before entering the empty grave. He was privileged to treat the Blessed Mother as his natural mother until her death.

He preached in Jerusalem, healed a cripple, suffered arrest, conferred with Paul, who never saw Jesus, and then John went on into Asia Minor to preach The Word. He lived a long time and was tried in many ways.

John had what we call drive. He never faltered. If, as I feel, he was born around A. D. 10, then it is certain that in A. D. 96 he returned to Ephesus and wrote his gospel.

In all new testaments, Matthew's word comes first; then Mark's, then Luke's, and, last, John's. Of the four, if I am permitted a choice, I would rather reread John's words then the others, Because John—as a good reporter should—wrote all his recollections in chronological order. His preface is a masterpiece of structure:

"These things are written that you may believe that Jesus is The Christ, the Son of God; and that, believing, you may have life in His Name."

John is also a personal favorite of mine for another reason. He had true charity. One of his converts renounced Christianity and became a brigand. John remembered the man when he was old. He went alone into the hills to find the bandit, who started to run when he saw St. John.

"Child," said John, "why do you run from me, your father, unarmed, and an old man? There is time for repentance. I will answer for you to Jesus Christ. I am ready to lay down my life for you. I am sent by Christ." The bandit stopped running and burst into tears. In the name of one solitary worthless sinner, John refused to leave the hills until he had resaved the thief.

He grew so old and feeble that he could no longer walk or preach. His followers used to carry him to the gatherings and he would raise his arms in supplication and cry hoarsely: "My little children, love one another."

Someone asked why he repeated the monotony of six words. St. John said: "Because it is the word of Thy Lord, and if you keep it you do enough." This represents not only a Christian concept of living, but an entire code of ethics for all mankind.

There is a poular fiction that John did not die; that he just "disappeared." no one knows, but there is reason to believe that he died in the city of Ephesus at the age of 94, and was buried there.

He is a good man to imitate. John had a good mind, enormous faith, and limitless charity in the face of errors on the part of his brethren.

He is overshadowed of course, this week. But his feast day is the 27th. John is worth remembering . . .

Voodoo, Syndromes, And Breadth Variation

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Someone always is shattering our illusions. A Boston psychologist now tells us that voodoo deaths cannot occur directly from sticking pins into an effigy of an enemy. After studying the literature on deaths by sorcery, he concluded that some of these fatalities were due to poisoning or to organic causes. Other victims, believing they were hexed, stopped eating and drinking and died of starvation and dehydration. If this isnt black magic, what is?

A syndrome is a set of symptoms or signs that occurs together. Meniere's syndrome, for example, consists of dizziness, deafness, and ear noises. There are hundreds of other syndromes and one of my favorites is the Alice in Wonderland. This little lady, as we know, dreamed she assumed unusual sizes and shapes and the size and position of objects often were bizarre.

Alice was puzzled about her identity and dual personality. These psychic changes occur in intoxication with certain drugs, in delirium due to fever, and in schizophrenia. Physicians long have considered that Alice's creator, Lewis Carroll, was mirroring his own experiences during attacks of migraine.

I have written about this syndrome before but the reason I bring it up again is that there is a movement afoot to call the condition "the depersonalization syndrome." There goe my favorite term into an impersonal category.

What is the broadest part of a seated person? It is the distance between the elbows when they are held close to the body—and not what you thought. The breadth varies according to age and sex. This information is not important unless you are designing furniture, clothing, farm and industrial equipment, aircraft, or other products in which efficiency and comfort are needed.

The measurements are being made by a team of public health examiners. These men are going around the country collecting statistics mainly on the prevalence of heart disease and arthritis, the degree of visual and hearing acuity, the blood pressure levels, and dimensions of the American physique. Perhaps they have been in your neighborhood—if so, your measurements will contribute not only to the health aspects of the survey but also to the size of your next chair.

Try And Stop Me

Somerset Maugham explained in one short sentence why writers, actors, and producers are never completely pleased when one of their contemporaries registers a smash hit. "We authors," Mr. Maugham told a reporter, "like to see a friend get ahead, but, my dear fellow, not out of sight!"

An actress applied for a role that called for a charming, seductive young matron. "You're too old for a part like this," scoffed the manager. "I am nothing of the kind," snapped the actress, "and I'll prove it to you. I was 17 when I married and my husband was 35. Now he's 70 and that's just twice what he was then. That makes me 34."

Food Stamp Program Aids Pupils' Health

McDowell County Children Cited

By JOSEPH HUTYNAN

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government's experimental food stamp program has been credited with improving the health and morale of school-age children in McDowell County, W. Va.

In letters to the Agriculture Department, school principals in that county says their pupils are dressing better, appear better fed and have missed fewer school days since their families started participating in the food stamp program.

McDowell County is the only area being used as a test site in West Virginia. However, seven other sites are participating in Illinois, Kentucky, Michigan, Minnesota, Montana, New Mexico and Pennsylvania.

Under the program, needy families are given stamps that can be used as money in purchase of food. The new plan replaced, in the test areas, direct handouts of surplus commodities.

McDowell County School Superintendent George W. Ryson, who sent the principals' letters on to Washington, said the "stamp" program has received enthusiastic endorsement from many of them.

A total of 28 principals expressed their opinion of the program, or about one-third of the total in the county. All approved of the program except one, who said "the same children who came to school dirty, ill-fed, and ill-clad before the program was initiated, come to school in like manner now."

However, the others took the opposite view, saying many of the pupils previously stayed home because they were ashamed of the contents of their lunch boxes. Others stay away because they could not afford lunches at all, according to the principals.

One principal wrote that an eighth-grader expressed his appreciation of the program with these words:

"My wrists were this big (illustrating a small circle with his fingers). Now look at me!" The same principal added, "He (the pupil) had gained weight as had many others during the fall and summer."

The Kennedy administration presently is considering proposals for extending the program by 1967 to cover all the needy persons in the nation's economically depressed areas.

"More pupils are bringing better prepared lunches and enjoy eating their lunches with their classmates. They are not ashamed or embarrassed for their classmates to see their lunches."

"The children seem to be happier...it is our opinion that a good American feeling of independence, rather than dependence is being developed and we heartily recommend the continuation of this program in our county."

"One father told me he could not have kept his two daughters in high school without the aid of food stamps. He said, "They give me at least $30 more to use for food and clothes.'"

"The number of free lunches served daily has decreased by almost one-half...the children have more materials, such as paper, pencils, etc."

Unemployment And Flash Flood Among Top 1961 "Human" Stories

Editor's note: Following is the fourth in a series of five dispatches reviewing West Virginia news developments of 1961. Today: the "Human" side of the news.

By DONALD F. FANNIN

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The big word in West Virginia during 1961 was unemployment—the unemployment of the young and old and its accompanying tragedies.

It was a year when a jobless Beckley area man was forced to give up his five children to others because he couldn't get enough work to provide an adequate home. He had been divorced from his wife and had been trying to get by on what his elderly father received from a miner's pension.

It was the year of the food stamp...ADC and EEP...and of the middle-aged man who said simply, "It's hell," when asked how he was able to provide for family of five persons on the pay from $160-a-month state public works job.

The weather played a big role, too, producing a flash flood in Charleston July 19th that claimed 22 lives and wrought such devastaton that the area was designated a national disaster region.

Heroes In Flood

But the flood had its heroes, young and old, including two teenaged boys, credited with probably saving the lives of two women and their four children in the hard-hit Elk Two-Mile section.

James Burgess, 17, and Roger McCubbin, 15, floundered through the roaring waters to reach the women and children, trapped when their home was surrounded by water.

When they reached the house, the water was chest deep. One boy was swept off his feet. The other clutched a window ledge and pulled his companion to safety.

Once inside, they found the children had been placed on a refrigerator, just out of the rising water's reach. They were finally able to pound a hole through the roof of the house and take the women and children to the roof where they rode out the flood until a boat picked them up.

The summer also brought renewed protests against snake-handling by certain religious sects in the state. After two women were fatally bitten last August, the practice was called "an affront to civilization by a veteran state legislator, Del. J. C. Cruikshank, D-Clay, who said he would seek legislation against the practice.

Too Much Beer

Politics was always in evidence and occasionally got out of hand. Like a Sunday rally at Oglebay Park, Wheeling, when an outdoor Democratic rally was held for Rep. Cleveland M. Bailey. They served up free beer as an enticement.

One hefty spectator enjoyed himself so much he jumped onto the speakers' platform and snatched a microphone from the 76-year-old congressman. He then clobbered a deputy sheriff who tried to stop him, with a beer glass, inflicting a gash that required 20 stitches to close.

In jail later, the man confided, "I was pretty full of beer. I just wanted to tell the people to have a good time."

In the New Martinsville area, to publicize the run-down condition of a chuck-hole marred road, some residents of rural Limestone Ridge erected a series of signs on one stretch of the road.

Alongside one chuck road, a sign said simply "Hole." Beside a bigger hole a sign read, "Deep Hole." A short distance farther another sign: "Real Deep Hole." Then by another still deeper hole, a sign: "No fishing."

'Cussing' Costly

"It was enough to make somebody "cuss," and at Princeton a couple of women did and got fined $1.45 per cuss word by Magistrate Jim Belcher. His action followed an argument between the two Monroe County women and some Princeton women.

The Monroe Courtian gals also were ordered "to stay out of Mercer County" by the squire.

In Charleston, a man grabbed a purse containing $2,000 from a woman at a bank and walked briskly out of the place as she screamed for help. But police weren't able to do a thing about it.

Under questioning, the woman admitted the man was her husband. She was suing for divorce but no formal action had been taken so police told her the money was community property.

Or, near Franklin:

"Mrs. Claude Mitchell took a hefty swing with a butcher knife at a bee while slicing some meat at her home. The bee got away. Mrs. Mitchell had to have nine stitches to close the gash she inflicted in her own arm."

FROSTBURG—Mrs. Lois Jackson, public health nurse, announced that the Well baby and polio clinic scheduled for Thursday has been cancelled.

Food Stamp Program Aids Pupils' Health

By JOSEPH HUTYNAN

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government's experimental food stamp program has been credited with improving the health and morale of school-age children in McDowell County, W. Va.

In letters to the Agriculture Department, school principals in that county says their pupils are dressing better, appear better fed and have missed fewer school days since their families started participating in the food stamp program.

McDowell County is the only area being used as a test site in West Virginia. However, seven other sites are participating in Illinois, Kentucky, Michigan, Minnesota, Montana, New Mexico and Pennsylvania.

Under the program, needy families are given stamps that can be used as money in purchase of food. The new plan replaced, in the test areas, direct handouts of surplus commodities.

McDowell County School Superintendent George W. Ryson, who sent the principals' letters on to Washington, said the "stamp" program has received enthusiastic endorsement from many of them.

A total of 28 principals expressed their opinion of the program, or about one-third of the total in the county. All approved of the program except one, who said "the same children who came to school dirty, ill-fed, and ill-clad before the program was initiated, come to school in like manner now."

However, the others took the opposite view, saying many of the pupils previously stayed home because they were ashamed of the contents of their lunch boxes. Others stay away because they could not afford lunches at all, according to the principals.

One principal wrote that an eighth-grader expressed his appreciation of the program with these words:

"My wrists were this big (illustrating a small circle with his fingers). Now look at me!" The same principal added, "He (the pupil) had gained weight as had many others during the fall and summer."

"More pupils are bringing better prepared lunches and enjoy eating their lunches with their classmates. They are not ashamed or embarrassed for their classmates to see their lunches."

"The children seem to be happier...it is our opinion that a good American feeling of independence, rather than dependence is being developed and we heartily recommend the continuation of this program in our county."

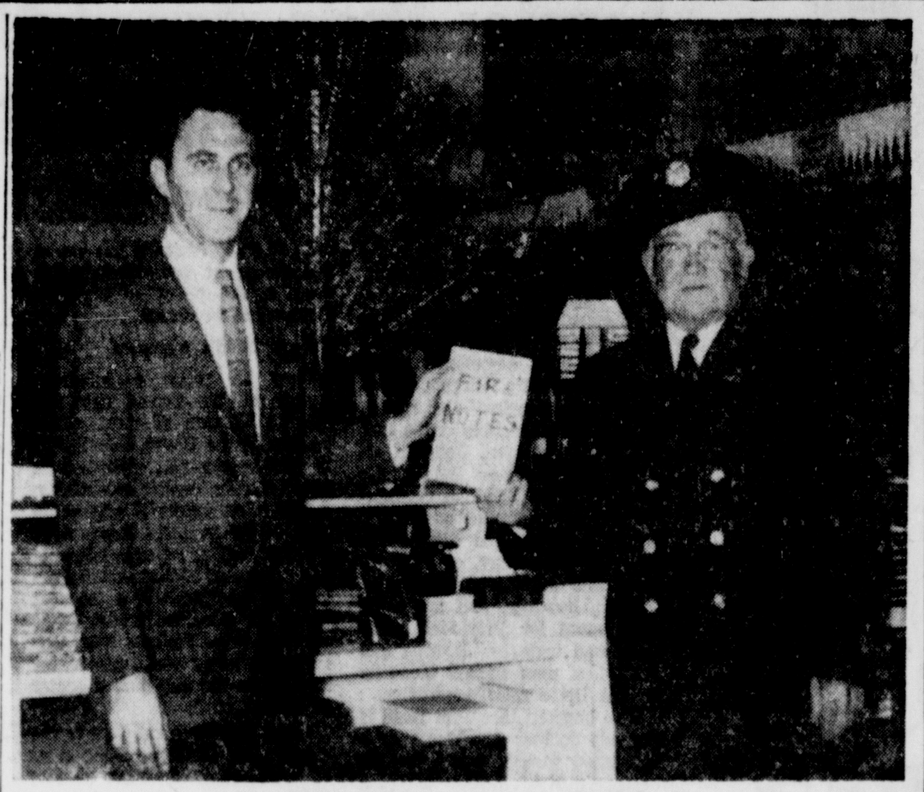

"One father told me he could not have kept his two daughters in high school without the aid of food stamps. He said, "They give me at least $30 more to use for food and clothes.'"

"The number of free lunches served daily has decreased by almost one-half...the children have more materials, such as paper, pencils, etc."

Cincinnati, Duquesne Win Opening Games In Holiday Tournaments

St. John's Bows, 97-68, To Bearcats

Sophomore Sub Sparks Victors; LaSalle Wins 87-60

NEW YORK (UPI)—Ron Bonham, a six-foot-five sophomore substitute, came off the bench late in the first half and put on a spectacular shooting display Tuesday to lead Cincinnati to a come-from-behind 97-68 victory over St. John's in the opening round of the Holiday Festival.

The victory qualified the nationally second-ranked Bearcats from Ohio to meet LaSalle in Thursday night's semifinals. LaSalle won the opening game of the afternoon doubleheader from Dartmouth, 87-60, before a crowd of 13,186 at Madison Square Garden.

NYU To Meet Dayton

Cincinnati trailed St. John's, 33-30, with four minutes to go in the first half when Bonham entered the game. Bonham's initial contribution was three field goals that helped give the Bearcats a 44-37 lead at halftime.

But that was only a beginning. Hitting mostly on 15-foot jump shots, Bonham scored 10 of Cincinnati's first 20 points during the second half to leave St. John's trailing, 62-48.

Leroy Ellis, six-foot-10 St. John's center, kept his team in the game all during the first half when he made good on eight of 12 field goal attempts.

Second Defeat

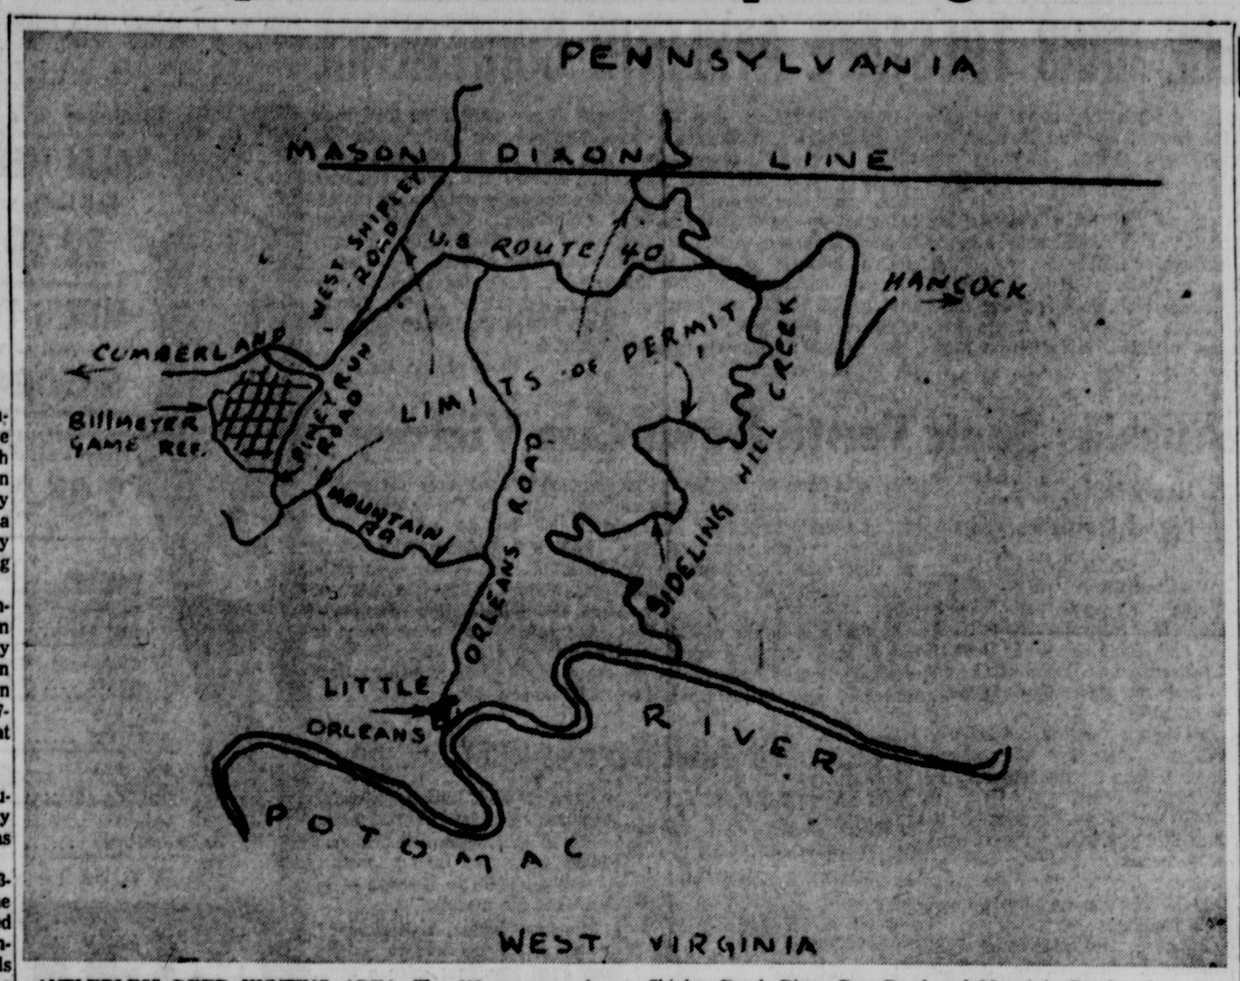

For St. John's, ranked 14th nationally, the defeat was the second in six games. Ellis wound up the game's high scorer with 29 ponnts.

In the opening game of the afternoon program the Explorers from Philadelphia scored in spurts through Dartmouth's zone defense. After falling behind 10-8 in the opening minutes, they outscored Dartmouth 16-2 within a five-minute span, Frank Corage contributing three field goals as La Salle moved ahead, 24-12.

Sampson and Dennis Murphy combined on a streak that widened the bulge to 54-38, just before Steve Spahn's shooting narrowed it to 10 points. Bob McAteer then scored nine points to touch off another rally that broke open the game at 73-48.

Spahn was Dartmouth's only serious offensive threat. He scored eight of the Indians' first 10 points to give them their early lead. And he scored 15 of their 28 points in the second half to wind up the game's high scorer with 26. McAteer led LaSalle with 18.

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The Hawkeyes of Iowa, paced by Don Nelson's 29 - point performance came back with a solid second half Tuesday for an easy 67-48 victory over Penn State in the first round of the ECAC Quaker City basketball tournament.

Seventh-ranked Duquesne, one of the pre-tournament title favorites, defeated Wyoming 64-47 in the afternoon opener to run its unbeaten season record to seven straight.

The Hawkeyes, out-rebounded and held to a 27-26 halftime score, broke loose in the second half to leave the Nittany Lions behind with a blitz which blanked Penn State without a field goal for 10½ minutes.

Score Tied At 25-25

The Big Ten entry, a tall combination, led most of the first half with their biggest margin 20-13 with 7:10 left. They were tied 25-25 with 1:17 remaining, went in front 27-25 on a pair of fouls by Nelson and barely maintained their one-point halftime lead when John Phillips missed the second of two fouls.

Then the Hawkeyes, running their season mark to 5-2, made it a runaway in the second half. Nelson opened with three field goals and a foul to run the count to 34-29, while State stuck in doggedly to keep it 38-32 with 4:07 gone.

While the Iowa defense blanked the Lions, the scoring combination ran the count to 60-40 before Gene Harris, who was high scorer for State with 18 points, ended the drought with a layup with 4:18 left. Phillips and Harris each added a fast bucket but by that time there was no hope for the Lions.

Three Cripples Rejoin Giants For Big Game

Alex Webster, Brown And Walton Practice

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The team's three cripples — halfback Alex Webster, end Joe Walton and tackle Roosevelt Brown—were back in action when the New York Giants resumed workouts Tuesday for next Sunday's National Football League title game against Green Bay.

"It's too early to tell whether they'll be able to go full speed," said Coach Allie Sherman. "I am hopeful they'll be okay. We'll need all the offensive punch we can get."

All three of the injured players are members of the offensive unit. Webster suffered a pulled groin muscle and Walton strained a leg muscle against Philadelphia Dec. 10. Brown has been playing a month with a bad knee.

"If we're to reverse those two losses to the Packers (20-17 in an exhibition game and 20-17 later in a regular season contest), we're going to have to control the ball," Sherman added. "They have a hard-hitting attack."

The Giants, idle over the Christmas holidays, worked out at Yankee Stadium Tuesday afternoon. The team takes off from LaGuardia Airport at 1 p.m. Friday by chartered plane.

The game between the Eastern and Western division champions of the NFL is scheduled to start at 1 p.m. CST (2 p.m. EST) in Green Bay's City Stadium. The Packers rule a 2½-point favorite.

Sherman said the Giants were unswayed by the advance odds or the fact that they had suffered two straight defeats at the hands of the Green Bay team.

Antlerless Deer Season Gets Under Way Thursday

Hunting In Allegany County Is Limited To Little Orleans Area

The three-day anterless deer season which opens in the Little Orleans District Thursday will mark the first time since the State Game Department was established in Maryland in 1918 that antlerless deer will be legal in Allegany county.

Eight hundred hunters who braved the cold and long hours of waiting in line at the Little Orleans School on the morning of December 16 were rewarded with the permits for the three-day season which ends Saturday.

Even so, the antlerless season in this county will be debated for sometime to come as an overwhelming number of sportsmen and farmers did not favor it. In fact, many of the farmers in the Belle Grove area have organized a Farmers Association and have posted their properties to advise hunters no antlerless deer will be permitted on their farms.

To provide sufficient hunting territory to keep nimrods from hunting too close together the Game and Inland Fish Commission has made approximately 4,000 acres of forest land available for the special season. Each person issued a permit also received a map of the hunting area.

All deer must be checked at Roby's Mobil Service Station at Belle Grove on Route 40.

Hunters are urged to wear a yellow or red garment and observe the Sportsmen's Code "To be certain of your target before shooting."

It's Now Official, Mitchell To Play With Washington

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Washington Redskins made it official Tuesday and announced that they had acquired halfback Bob Mitchell from the Cleveland Browns.

Mitchell was part of the deal that gave the Browns the draft rights to All-America halfback Ernie Davis of Syracuse.

But the Redskins didn't announce officially until Tuesday that they had acquired Mitchell because they had to wait until he had finished this year's play with the Browns.

Another figure in the trade was halfback Leroy Jackson of Western Illinois, a top draft choice of Cleveland. Since Jackson also is a track star, no attempt can be made by Washington to sign him until he is through competing next spring.

Mitchell is now on active duty at nearby Ft. Meade, Md. A Redskin spokesman said no salary negotiations have begun with the 26-year-old veteran of four years in the National Football League.

Last season was his best when the Rebels posted an 18-3 record, including a sweep of four games with Allegany and Fort Hill.

The Rebels will be making their fourth start of the current campaign tonight. They have whipped Westminster High, 47-41 and "Shad" Hunt's St. Maria Goretti cagers, 70-54, while losing to Waynesboro, Pa., 61-52.

Coach Chet Payne's Campers lost the opener to Martinsburg's Bulldogs, 66-54, and copped their last two engagements with Piedmont, 49-46, and the Alumni, 59-48.

Allegany's next home engagement will be with Keyser High's unbeaten Golden Tornado on Friday night.

ALLEGANY COMMUNITY COLLEGE JOINS TRI-STATE ATHLETIC CONFERENCE

Trojans To Play 14-Tilt Cage Slate

John Bailey Coach Of Squad Which Has Won Two Contests

Allegany Community College, with a full-time enrollment of 28 male students, has joined the Tri-State Junior College Athletic Conference, and has completed a 14-game basketball schedule for this season.

The Trojans, tutored by head coach John Bailey, a history and political science instructor at the college whose only experience with basketball was a brief fling as a junior varsity player in college, already has won two of its three games.

Playing against teams in the YMCA Senior Men's Basketball League, Allegany College dropped its opener to the Maccabees, 81-62, then defeated Ridgeley, 60-53 and St. John's 65-50.

Resume On January 4

The Trojans will resume action on the hardwood floor on January 4 when they travel to Shepherdstown, W. Va., to meet the Shepherd College Rams in the first of two games scheduled there.

Home and home contests are slated with Shenandoah Junior College of Winchester, Va., Frederick Junior College, Johnstown College and the Frostburg State College Jayvees. A single contest is slated with Potomac State College's junior varsity.

Coach Bailey, a graduate of Hampden-Sydney College who obtained his master's degree in education at the University of Maryland, said the Trojans will be ineligible to participate in Tri-State Conference activities this season because of inability to schedule enough games in the first season in the conference.

16 Players Reported

Bailey said 16 students reported for initial practice sessions. This was 57 per cent of the total male enrollment and enthusiasm has run high for the college's fledgling efforts. The squad has been trimmed to 10 players, he stated.

Comprising the first Trojan squad are Ronnie Riggs, Terry Evans, Bob Suesse, Bill DeArcangelis, Jack Stevenson, Larry Thompson, Gary Bartik, Dennis Engle, Dick Duckworth and Ray McElfish.

Most of these players have had little or no varsity high school experience, Bailey noted, but added the boys have had a lot of spirit for this initial endeavor. The school's colors will be dark green and white.

Roy R. McClarin, Horse Breeder, Taken By Death

Mrs. G. A. Saportas Was Stable Trainer

HANOVER, Pa. (AP) — Funeral services will be held here Wednesday for Roy R. McClarin, a horse breeder who was known at Maryland and West Virginia race tracks.

McClarin died Monday in Hanover General Hospital after a three-week illness. He was 66.

A horse breeder since 1939, McClarin owned Pine Run Farm near Abbottsville in Pennsylvania's York County. He developed racers out of Charing Cross II, trained by Mrs. George A. Saportas.

Among the better known horses were Mighty Cross, Selingrove, New Oxford and Spring Grove. His trotters and pacers, sold as yearlings, often were winners at East Coast tracks.

McClarin was a native of York County. He and his brother, Cecil, owned and operated the Charles M. McClarin Heel and Inner Sole Co. here. Roy retired eight years ago.

Badgers, Dayton Win In Tourney

NEW YORK (AP) — Wisconsin turned in a surprisingly easy 95-84 conquest of favored Providence Tuesday night after unbeaten Dayton conquered previously undefeated New York University 75-67 in first round action in the ECAC Holiday Basketball Festival.

Cincinnati, the second ranked team in the nation, trounced St. John's 97-68 and LaSalle whipped Dartmouth 87-60 in afternoon games at Madison Square Garden.

LaSalle will play Cincinnati, defending NCAA champions, and Wisconsin will try Dayton in semi-finals Thursday night.

North-South Game Score Is Changed

Referee Says South Won Contest, 35-16

MIAMI (UPI) — The game referee narrowed Tuesday the point spread of the South team's victory over the North in the annual College All-Star Football battle in the Orange Bowl Christmas night.

Referee Pete Williams said the South won the game 35-16, rather than 35-10 as the scoreboard showed, most spectators thought and newsmen reported.

The point mix-up resulted from the final play of the game. It appeared to observers that a North lineman tackled South team quarterback Bobby Ply in the end zone for a two-point safety.

Williams said, however, that Ply had fumbled the ball and the North team recovered it in the end zone for a six - point touchdown.

"I told (Duffy) Daugherty (North team coach) that he had a touch down and did he want to try for the extra points, Williams said. "He said 'yes'.

"I then told Frank Howard (the South coach) that there would have to be another play.

"Seeing the mass of people already swarming on the field, Howard said that they would concede the extra points as a gesture of Southern hospitality."

Therefore, the North team was awarded a touchdown and two extra points on the final play of the game, the referee said.

Aussies Seek Tenth Davis Cup Victory

Lead Italy, 2-1, Need Doubles Win

By GORDON TAIT

MELBOURNE (AP)— Italy's Nicola Pietrangeli and Orlando Sirola met Australia's Roy Emerson and Neale Fraser in Doubles Wednesday in a last ditch effort to keep the Davis Cup challenge round alive.

A victory for the Australians will give them the international tennis trophy for the 10th time in the last 12 years.

The match was scheduled to start at 2 p.m. local time (11 p.m. EST Tuesday in U.S.) on the Kooyong Courts where the Australians won the opening two singles Tuesday.

Emerson, Australian and U.S. champion, handed the Italians their hardest blow when he defeated Pietrangeli 8-6, 6-4, 6-0. The flashy, left-handed Rod Laver, Wimbledon champion, made it 2-0 with a 55-minute rout of the 6-foot-8 Sirola 6-1, 6-4, 6-3.

The Italians have their best chance in doubles, and the match is considered a tossup. Pietrangeli and Sirola have been playing together for eight years and during that time they have beaten some of the world's top combinations.

A year ago, in one of the Australian state championships, they crushed Fraser and Emerson. However, later, in the Davis Cup challenge round they dropped a tough battle to the same Aussie pair 10-8, 5-7, 6-2, 6-4.

Twelve thousand people sat in blistering heat in the open Kooyong stands to see the start of the 1961 Davis Cup challenge. Some fainted and some found it too hot to stay, but 10,000 were there when Sirola played his last shot into the net.

UCLA Coach Holds Negroes Out Of Game

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — UCLA basketball coach John Wooden said Tuesday he held his two Negro players out of last Saturday's game with Texas A&M in the Houston tournament "because I felt everyone would be better off."

Wooden refused to elaborate on his statement when questioned by members of the Southern California basketball writers, adding he did not want to hurt relations between UCLA and the Texas schools.

When pressed, however, Wooden admitted "I didn't want to make much of the incident, but I don't think we'll be taking another basketball team to Houston — at least not for a while."

The two players, Walt Hazzard, a promising sophomore guard, and Fred Slaughter, also a soph, played Friday night in the first game of the tournament against Houston.

MIAMI (UPI) — The game referee narrowed Tuesday the point spread of the South team's victory over the North in the annual College All-Star Football battle in the Orange Bowl Christmas night.

Referee Pete Williams said the South won the game 35-16, rather than 35-10 as the scoreboard showed, most spectators thought and newsmen reported.

The point mix-up resulted from the final play of the game. It appeared to observers that a North lineman tackled South team quarterback Bobby Ply in the end zone for a two-point safety.

Williams said, however, that Ply had fumbled the ball and the North team recovered it in the end zone for a six-point touchdown.

"I told (Duffy) Daugherty (North team coach) that he had a touch down and did he want to try for the extra points, Williams said. "He said 'yes'.

"I then told Frank Howard (the South coach) that there would have to be another play.

"Seeing the mass of people already swarming on the field, Howard said that they would concede the extra points as a gesture of Southern hospitality."

Therefore, the North team was awarded a touchdown and two extra points on the final play of the game, the referee said.

Aussies Seek Tenth Davis Cup Victory

Lead Italy, 2-1, Need Doubles Win

By GORDON TAIT

MELBOURNE (AP)— Italy's Nicola Pietrangeli and Orlando Sirola met Australia's Roy Emerson and Neale Fraser in Doubles Wednesday in a last ditch effort to keep the Davis Cup challenge round alive.

A victory for the Australians will give them the international tennis trophy for the 10th time in the last 12 years.

The match was scheduled to start at 2 p.m. local time (11 p.m. EST Tuesday in U.S.) on the Kooyong Courts where the Australians won the opening two singles Tuesday.

Emerson, Australian and U.S. champion, handed the Italians their hardest blow when he defeated Pietrangeli 8-6, 6-4, 6-0. The flashy, left-handed Rod Laver, Wimbledon champion, made it 2-0 with a 55-minute rout of the 6-foot-8 Sirola 6-1, 6-4, 6-3.

The Italians have their best chance in doubles, and the match is considered a tossup. Pietrangeli and Sirola have been playing together for eight years and during that time they have beaten some of the world's top combinations.

A year ago, in one of the Australian state championships, they crushed Fraser and Emerson. However, later, in the Davis Cup challenge round they dropped a tough battle to the same Aussie pair 10-8, 5-7, 6-2, 6-4.

Twelve thousand people sat in blistering heat in the open Kooyong stands to see the start of the 1961 Davis Cup challenge. Some fainted and some found it too hot to stay, but 10,000 were there when Sirola played his last shot into the net.

UCLA Coach Holds Negroes Out Of Game

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — UCLA basketball coach John Wooden said Tuesday he held his two Negro players out of last Saturday's game with Texas A&M in the Houston tournament "because I felt everyone would be better off."

Wooden refused to elaborate on his statement when questioned by members of the Southern California basketball writers, adding he did not want to hurt relations between UCLA and the Texas schools.

When pressed, however, Wooden admitted "I didn't want to make much of the incident, but I don't think we'll be taking another basketball team to Houston — at least not for a while."

The two players, Walt Hazzard, a promising sophomore guard, and Fred Slaughter, also a soph, played Friday night in the first game of the tournament against Houston.

Stock Market Advances As Oils Score Sharply

NEW YORK (UPI)—The stock market advanced Tuesday, but the gain was slight as late selling brought a majority of issues down from their best levels of the day.

The Dow Jones industrial stock average closed at 723.09 up 2.22. Gains here ran to more than a point in American Tobacco, Eastman Kodak, Du Pont and International Nickel. Union Carbide fell 1½.

Rails were up 0.03 on average and utilities down 0.60 at 127.52.

Losses in the utility average ran to around 2 or more in Cleveland Electric Illuminating and American Gas. Houston Lighting and Commonwealth Edison were off a half or more.

Steel producers reported demand for their products is broadening and the members of this group responded with gains of ⅝ in Jones & Laughlin and a smaller fraction in U.S. steel. Allegheny Ludlum, expecting sharply improved earnings next year, ran up 1⅜.

Ford reported higher auto sales for the mid-December period and the stock rose 3⅝. Chrysler rose 1⅛ and General Motors a point. American Motors was unchanged at 17.

A total of 1,279 issues appeared on the tape, 519, advancing 12 to new highs, while 520 declined, 12 to new lows. Trading amounted to 3,180,000 shares, down from 3,390,000 on Friday.

Stock Market Advances As Oils Score Sharply

NEW YORK (UPI)—The stock market advanced Tuesday, but the gain was slight as late selling brought a majority of issues down from their best levels of the day.

Oils scored sharply, followed by electronics, autos and then steels. Utility shares continued the sell-off that started well over a week ago.

The Dow Jones industrial stock average closed at 723.09 up 2.22. Gains here ran to more than a point in American Tobacco, Eastman Kodak, Du Pont and International Nickel. Union Carbide fell 1½.

Rails were up 0.03 on average and utilities down 0.60 at 127.52.

Losses in the utility average ran to around 2 or more in Cleveland Electric Illuminating and American Gas. Houston Lighting and Commonwealth Edison were off a half or more.

Steel producers reported demand for their products is broadening and the members of this group responded with gains of ⅝ in Jones & Laughlin and a smaller fraction in U.S. steel. Allegheny Ludlum, expecting sharply improved earnings next year, ran up 1⅜.

Ford reported higher auto sales for the mid-December period and the stock rose 3⅝. Chrysler rose 1⅛ and General Motors a point. American Motors was unchanged at 17.

A total of 1,279 issues appeared on the tape, 519, advancing 12 to new highs, while 520 declined, 12 to new lows. Trading amounted to 3,180,000 shares, down from 3,390,000 on Friday.

Fire Damages Home In LaVale Area

The fire occurred at the residence of J. C. Driver, Glenview Terrace, who said he and his wife called the fire company when they smelled smoke. Investigation disclosed smoke seeping from a wall switch, after which Driver summoned the firefighters.

Revel Takes Feature At Santa Anita

37,000 At Opening, Double Makes Bow

ARCADIA, Calif., Dec. 26 (AP) —Santa Anita Park launched its 27th winter meeting today under skies that turned from sun to smog and fog as Revel, the betting favorite, won the $23,250 Palos Verdes Handicap.

One of the nation's leading sprint stars this year, Revel, in the chartreuse silks of Mrs. Helen L. Kenaston, hit the wire almost three lengths in front of N. S. McCarthy's Ole Fols, the winner of this opening day feature last year.

Ole Fols won out over Windy Sands for the place berth, with Free Copy fourth in the field of 12 3-year-olds and up, Currock was a scratch.

The time for the six furlongs was 1:09-4/5.

Revel, a 5-year-old son of the Pie King, initiated the Hollywood Park summer meeting with a similar win in the Hollywood Premier Handicap.

Victory was worth $14,250. Revel paid $5, $3.40 and $2.60; Ole Fols returned $5.60 and $4.20 and Windy Sands $5.60.

Staid Santa Anita, last big track in California to install the daily double betting, saw it inaugurated with something less than a whopping success.

There were a few bugs to be ironed out in the mechanical parimutuel room and the public was unfamiliar with the location of the daily double betting windows.

Hi Favor won the first race for a $12 payoff and Sir Tramp the second for $34, and the double returned $224.80.

Canal Skating Area Unsafe After Thaw

The first ice skaters began using the new C&O Canal area between Roberts and Offutt Street Christmas and yesterday but the Recreation Department is urging extreme care for another day or two until ice reaches a safe depth throughout the 2,000 foot facility.

C. Eugene Mason, recreation director, said the area was very unsafe yesterday afternoon after the weather moderated and it will be another day or two before ice depth is sufficient over the entire area to classify it as safe and good. Ice has formed to a depth of one to three inches with the best skating at each end of the area rather than in the middle.

Mason urged that residents skate in pairs as a safety measure in case of mishap. There are some "weak spots" in the ice, he added.

About 25 skaters, mostly children and some adults, used the area over the holidays.

The Recreation Department has installed barrels in which skaters can build fires and plans to locate several more benches there for the convenience of skaters. The National Park Service has already placed one bench at the site, Mason said.

The C&O area was prepared for citizens as a cooperative effort between the city and Park Service. It is approximately 30 feet wide.

The Recreation Department also said that skating will not be available at the Gephart School rink for another day or two. The area was flooded several days ago and has a thin skim of ice. Plans call has a thin skim of ice. The area was reflooded yesterday but several days of cold weather will be needed to make the surface skateable.

Fire Damages Home In LaVale Area

A LaVale area home was slightly damaged by fire Monday, with spokesmen for the LaVale Volunteer Fire Company reporting the blaze resulted from an overheated flue that caused smouldering in an adjoining partition.

The fire occurred at the residence of J. C. Driver, Glenview Terrace, who said he and his wife called the fire company when they smelled smoke. Investigation disclosed smoke seeping from a wall switch, after which Driver summoned the firefighters.

Revel Takes Feature At Santa Anita

37,000 At Opening, Double Makes Bow

ARCADIA, Calif., Dec. 26 (AP) —Santa Anita Park launched its 27th winter meeting today under skies that turned from sun to smog and fog as Revel, the betting favorite, won the $23,250 Palos Verdes Handicap.

One of the nation's leading sprint stars this year, Revel, in the chartreuse silks of Mrs. Helen L. Kenaston, hit the wire almost three lengths in front of N. S. McCarthy's Ole Fols, the winner of this opening day feature last year.

Ole Fols won out over Windy Sands for the place berth, with Free Copy fourth in the field of 12 3-year-olds and up, Currock was a scratch.

The time for the six furlongs was 1:09-4/5.

An opening day crowd estimated at 37,000 was on hand matching the track expectations after the long holiday weekend.

Revel, a 5-year-old son of the Pie King, initiated the Hollywood Park summer meeting with a similar win in the Hollywood Premier Handicap.

Victory was worth $14,250. Revel paid $5, $3.40 and $2.60; Ole Fols returned $5.60 and $4.20 and Windy Sands $5.60.

Staid Santa Anita, last big track in California to install the daily double betting, saw it inaugurated with something less than a whopping success.

There were a few bugs to be ironed out in the mechanical parimutuel room and the public was unfamiliar with the location of the daily double betting windows.

Hi Favor won the first race for a $12 payoff and Sir Tramp the second for $34, and the double returned $224.80.

Canal Skating Area Unsafe After Thaw

The first ice skaters began using the new C&O Canal area between Roberts and Offutt Street Christmas and yesterday but the Recreation Department is urging extreme care for another day or two until ice reaches a safe depth throughout the 2,000 foot facility.

C. Eugene Mason, recreation director, said the area was very unsafe yesterday afternoon after the weather moderated and it will be another day or two before ice depth is sufficient over the entire area to classify it as safe and good. Ice has formed to a depth of one to three inches with the best skating at each end of the area rather than in the middle.

Mason urged that residents skate in pairs as a safety measure in case of mishap. There are some "weak spots" in the ice, he added.

About 25 skaters, mostly children and some adults, used the area over the holidays.

The Recreation Department has installed barrels in which skaters can build fires and plans to locate several more benches there for the convenience of skaters. The National Park Service has already placed one bench at the site, Mason said.

The C&O area was prepared for citizens as a cooperative effort between the city and Park Service. It is approximately 30 feet wide.

The Recreation Department also said that skating will not be available at the Gephart School rink for another day or two. The area was flooded several days ago and has a thin skim of ice. Plans call has a thin skim of ice. The area was reflooded yesterday but several days of cold weather will be needed to make the surface skateable.

Local Terminal May Help B&O To Cut Costs

Is Negotiating With WM Railway

Coordination of facilities of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad and the Western Maryland Railway here is part of the plan outlined by Jarvis Langdon Jr., president, to restore the B & O's earning power.

In his annual report, Mr. Langdon said important savings are within reach as the B & O moves forward with both the C & O and WM in coordination projects.

He said the C & O and B & O are planning to unify their terminal operations at Chicago and Toledo, and that in Cincinnati there will be a new joint yard.

The B & O, he said, has been working with the Western Maryland as to ways and means of coordinating operations into and out of Cumberland.

He said other savings will continue as the B & O moves into its passenger service deficit by consolidating passenger trains, withdrawing unprofitable service and renegotiating existing terminal arrangements.

Unless the New York Central is willing to make a drastic reduction in trackage and terminal charges for the B & O's use of its facilities between Toledo and Detroit, he added, B & O's Detroit passenger service may have to be withdrawn.

Expenses will also be reduced by the end of the year, he said, as 27 off-line and on-line passenger solicitation and ticket offices are closed at an annual savings of $1,400,000.

Boy 'Serious' After Clothing Catches Fire

Anthony Warnick, seven-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Warnick, Barton, was reported in "serious" condition last night at Miners Hospital, Frostburg, where he was admitted yesterday morning after being burned at his home.

His mother stated that the child had gone downstairs while his three brothers and sisters and his mother were sleeping. The father had gone to work.

After rolling him on the floor on a rug and quenching the fire, an ambulance took him to Miners Hospital where he underwent treatment for second and third degree burns of the lower extremities.

The mother was at a loss to know the cause of his clothes catching fire as the gas stove was not turned on.

The girl, Mary Irene Martin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Martin, 545 Newton Street, Keyser, was admitted to Potomac Valley Hospital, Keyser, with burns over 60 per cent of her body.

Attaches said the child was reportedly throwing paper into a coal stove when the flames shot out, igniting her clothes. Her parents reportedly put out the blaze by throwing water on the youngster.

The campaign manager issued a statement saying the nomination of Hume "is the one chance that I see to return decent, intelligent and forceful administration to our state.

"David Hume knows and understands the issues from long experience in state affairs," Lee said. "His poition on the Board of Natural Resources has demonstrated his understanding of the overwhelming importance of preserving the natural riches of Maryland."

Veterans May Get Aid At State Office

Veterans and their dependents are reminded that the Maryland Veterans Commission in the County Building on Union Street will be available to give assistance when the local office of the Veterans Administration closes Friday.

The announcement was made several months ago that the local VA office would close here at the end of the year and many persons are under the impression they have to travel to Baltimore to seek information or obtain veterans benefits.

However, the local office of the Maryland Veterans Commission, staffed by Thomas G. Kilduff, is qualified to handle all types of assistance to veterans and their dependents.

The local office is open Monday through Friday from 9 a. m. to 4:30 p. m. and Mr. Kilduff also visits other towns in Allegany and Garrett counties on certain days of the month.

The service is not confined to Maryland veterans. Residents of nearby West Virginia and Pennsylvania also are eligible to receive assistance at the local Maryland Veterans Commission office.

The veterans commission office handles disability pensions, death pensions, insurance, vocational rehabilitation, adjustments, consultation and guidance, return of war dead, duplicate discharge, affidavits and notary, burial allowance, appeals — increase in pensions, dependent parents pension, hospital and domiciliary care, family contacts, service certificates and other assistance.

B&O 'Dirty Shirt' Train Fulfills Happy Assignment

By ALBERT D. DARBY
News Staff Writer

A Baltimore and Ohio Railroad freight train which generally goes by the uncomplimentary name of "dirty shirt," was the proudest train in the whole system the other day when it made a special stop for the benefit of an eight-year-old boy from Great Cacapon, W. Va.

CV 96, the so-called "dirty shirt," left Cumberland about 9:10 a. m. last Saturday with its first important stop an hour later at Great Cacapon, the Morgan County community situated between Paw Paw and Berkeley Springs.

It seems that about 150 freight trainmen working on the Cumberland Division between Cumberland and Brunswick had decided on a special Christmas project for the benefit of an eight-year-old Great Cacapon boy, whom most of them did not even know by name.

He Loves Trains

Edward Ritchie, the Great Cacapon youngster, lives along the B&O tracks. For the better part of the last five years he has been waving to the crew of every passing B&O train. At night he likes to switch the porch lights off and on as a greeting signal to the trainmen. His mother says he wears the light switch out in no time at all.

About six weeks ago, the B&O trainmen decided to make Eddie their special Christams project, and three men from Brunswick were appointed to the committee. They were F. E. Israel, R. B. Menefee and M. E. Minnick.

Nearly $100 was collected and they got Eddie an electric train, a suit, jacket, overalls, shoes and socks with a transistor radio thrown in for good measure. Vernon Wharton of Cumberland, chief caller for the B&O, proved a guiding light in bringing the project to a head. He even painted the B&O insignia on the electric train to make it a proper gift for Eddie.

At any rate, everything was collected and placed on CV 96 last Saturday morning. H. L. Walton, the division superintendent, had given his permission for the stop at Eddie's house in Great Cacapon, where the boy lives with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Farmer.

Eddie was so surprised and happy when he saw the railroaders get off the "dirty shirt" with gifts for him that he could hardly speak.

A True Believer

Finally, after the train was placed in operation in his house, he managed to say "I sure think it nice" and "I still believe in Santa Claus." He certainly must have been the happiest boy along the B&O tracks that day.

R. H. Edwards of Ridgeley, the engineer, let the youngster sit at the throttle of Engine 4596 before they resumed their trip which

Tawes Again Under Fire For Loan Bill Veto

Criticism Made By Del. Blair Lee

BALTIMORE (AP)—Gov. Tawes came under fire again Tuesday for vetoing a 1960 measure which would have provided stop-gap regulation of Maryland's savings and loan industry.

The criticism was made in a statement issued by Del. Blair Lee III, D-Montgomery, a Democratic candidate for the U. S. Senate. Lee will run in 1962 on a ticket headed by George P. Mahoney, who will oppose Tawes for the gubernatorial nomination.

Lee gave Tawes credit for appointing the Case Commission in the summer of 1960, and of supporting the Case bill to regulate and supervise the building and loan associations when it came before the 1961 General Assembly.

"Locking The Barn"

"And when the Case bill was challenged by a referendum petition, he (Tawes) did call a special session to re-enact it with an emergency clause," Lee said.

But Lee said "all of this was a ceremonial locking of the barn door a year or so after the horse was stolen."

Former Del. Joseph D. Tydings, now U. S. attorney for Maryland, introduced a bill at the 1960 legislature which he contended would correct "the most flagrant" abuses in the industry until full regulation could be established.

Carl Gottschalk, executive secretary of the Maryland Savings and Loan League, urged its enactment and termed Maryland the "Reno of the savings and loan business."

When Tawes vetoed the bill, he promised to appoint a new study group—which later emerged as the Case Commission.

"A Hollow Ring"

"But the reasons given for vetoing the bill had a hollow ring to them then and look even worse now in the light of recent revelations," Lee's statement said.

"A great many of the most vicious abuses that have turned up in flaming headlines are practices that would have been outlawed by the Tydings bill," the statement continued.

"Many of them actually occurred during the period between April 6, 1960, and June 12, 1961—the period of 14 months in which innocent depositors and shareholders were left wholly unprotected because the governor of Maryland listened to the wrong advice and vetoed a good bill."

Two Hurt In Crash

Admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital was William Mallow, 22, of 202 Grand Avenue, who was reported in "fair" condition. He received possible head and internal injuries, according to the hospital.

Man Injured In Car Crash

A Frostburg area man was admitted to Miners Hospital in Frostburg yesterday evening with injuries he received in a one-car accident on State Route 36 near Midland.

Tfc. B. J. Chabot of the State Police investigated the accident which occurred one-half a mile north of Midland at 5:15 p. m.

Tfc. Chabot said Winters was traveling at an apparent high rate of speed when his vehicle ran off the right side of the highway and struck a stone abutment.

Prisoner Taken To State Hospital

William Clifford Hileman, 29, Rockwood, Pa., who has been arrested in the fatal shooting of his mother, Mrs. Ethel Hileman, 50, at her home Sunday afternoon, has been returned to the Somerset (Pa.) State Hospital.

Sheriff Norman F. Walker of Somerset County said he plans to organize a sanity board hearing today and give Hileman a hearing for the purpose of determining if he is fit to stand trial.

Hileman was home for the holidays from Somerset State Hospital, according to authorities, who said the young man shot his mother with a shotgun at point-blank range.

Hileman was being held at the Somerset County Jail without bond, but was transferred to the state hospital.

Youthful Escapee Captured

A Mineral County youth was recaptured yesterday shortly after being taken to the Mineral County Jail at Keyser, to await action on burglary charges.

The youth, Terry Kooken, 18, of New Creek, ran from authorities after Justice of the Peace Madalyn Bazzle had ordered him held under $1,000 bond on a burglary charge.

The pair was apprehended by Cpl. F. W. Armstrong and charged with burglary in connection with a robbery Christmas Eve at the Methodist Childrens Home at Burlington.

Police said they are accused of entering bedrooms on the second floor of the Children's Home and stole $50 in cash belonging to Mrs. Bernice Rhodes, superintendent of the school, and a wrist watch belonging to a 16-year-old girl.

The youths were taken before Magistrate Bazzle yesterday and waived a preliminary hearing. They were ordered held under $1,000 bond each for action of the January term of Mineral County Circuit Court.

Authorities said the boys allegedly broke into the home between 6 and 7:30 p. m. on Christmas Eve while the staff was attending church services.

Police said the cash and watch were being kept in strong boxes, and that the youths knocked the hinges off both boxes to obtain the loot.

Savage River Dam Survey Data Sought

A letter concerning the current Savage River Dam water supply survey for part of Allegany County was read at yesterday's meeting of the Board of County Commissioners.

John C. Childs of the Baltimore consulting engineering firm of Matz, Childs and Associates, Inc., wrote the county commissioners seeking information on the commissioners' efforts to get representatives of the executive branch of the federal government to intercede in getting permission for use of Savage River Dam water for water supply in Allegany County.

Mr. Childs wrote that the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers has indicated to the Upper Potomac River Commission that it (the corps) could not and would not permit use of Savage River Dam water for potable water supply without first receiving assurance of the participation by local interests in the cost of construction of the proposed North Branch Dam on the Potomac just upstream from Bloomington.

The Corps of Engineers last April recommended construction of the $51 million North Branch Dam in the fairly immediate future. Non-federal interests are expected to pay about one-third of the cost of this dam. With this dam available for low-flow augmentation, flood control and recreation the Corps of Engineers would be willing to allow use of some of the present Savage River Dam water for potable water supply, the letter said.

County Commissioner John T. Mason said yesterday that it is hoped to have an answer for Mr. Childs' letter by Friday.

On October 17, representatives of the engineering firm presented a preliminar, report to the county commissioners on the feasibility of extending water supply transmission main from the dam in Garrett County to the southern limits of Cumberland. At that time, they estimated the total cost at $11,600,000 in two stages — $8,200,000 and $3,400,000.

Scouts Make Progress On Park Area

Is Project Of Troop 4 Here

A Boy Scout troop has made considerable progress this fall toward the creation of a new city park area.

Development of a 300 by 400 foot tract of park land on Holland Street, between Catskill and Oswego streets, is the project adopted by Boy Scout Troop 4, sponsored by Centre Street Methodist Church.

The land was donated to the City of Cumberland and dedicated as a park area when the Dilfer Farms subdivision was laid out in 1937.

Fathers Pitch In

Although the work is a Troop 4 project, members of the scout committee, fathers and members of Explorer Post 4 have pitched in to speed work on the development.

George R. Scarlett, Troop 4 scoutmaster, said the scouts and scouters have been clearing underbrush from the area as the first part of the project.

Some of the trees on the undeveloped site, he said, are diseased and must come down.

The Department of Forests and Parks will be asked to examine the trees and make decisions on which can be saved.

The Street Department, he said, has promised to cut down any condemned trees and to haul away brush cut down by the Scout units.

Access Is Easy

Sponsors are interested in a report that a natural spring exists in the center of the park area, and its possibility for development into a pond.

Work on clearing the city park area began early in November, and the troop hopes to have the area cleared of brush and diseased trees by early summer.

The city park will be easily accessible as it is only two blocks off the bus line.

At any rate, everything was collected and placed on CV 96 last Saturday morning. H. L. Walton, the division superintendent, had given his permission for the stop at Eddie's house in Great Cacapon, where the boy lives with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Farmer.

Eddie was so surprised and happy when he saw the railroaders get off the "dirty shirt" with gifts for him that he could hardly speak.

A True Believer

Finally, after the train was placed in operation in his house, he managed to say "I sure think it nice" and "I still believe in Santa Claus." He certainly must have been the happiest boy along the B&O tracks that day.

Tawes Again Under Fire For Loan Bill Veto

Criticism Made By Del. Blair Lee

BALTIMORE (AP)—Gov. Tawes came under fire again Tuesday for vetoing a 1960 measure which would have provided stop-gap regulation of Maryland's savings and loan industry.

The criticism was made in a statement issued by Del. Blair Lee III, D-Montgomery, a Democratic candidate for the U. S. Senate. Lee will run in 1962 on a ticket headed by George P. Mahoney, who will oppose Tawes for the gubernatorial nomination.

Lee gave Tawes credit for appointing the Case Commission in the summer of 1960, and of supporting the Case bill to regulate and supervise the building and loan associations when it came before the 1961 General Assembly.

"Locking The Barn"

"And when the Case bill was challenged by a referendum petition, he (Tawes) did call a special session to re-enact it with an emergency clause," Lee said.

But Lee said "all of this was a ceremonial locking of the barn door a year or so after the horse was stolen."

Former Del. Joseph D. Tydings, now U. S. attorney for Maryland, introduced a bill at the 1960 legislature which he contended would correct "the most flagrant" abuses in the industry until full regulation could be established.

Carl Gottschalk, executive secretary of the Maryland Savings and Loan League, urged its enactment and termed Maryland the "Reno of the savings and loan business."

When Tawes vetoed the bill, he promised to appoint a new study group—which later emerged as the Case Commission.

"A Hollow Ring"

"But the reasons given for vetoing the bill had a hollow ring to them then and look even worse now in the light of recent revelations," Lee's statement said.

"A great many of the most vicious abuses that have turned up in flaming headlines are practices that would have been outlawed by the Tydings bill," the statement continued.

"Many of them actually occurred during the period between April 6, 1960, and June 12, 1961—the period of 14 months in which innocent depositors and shareholders were left wholly unprotected because the governor of Maryland listened to the wrong advice and vetoed a good bill."

Two Hurt In Crash

One young man was hospitalized and another was treated last night after a one-car accident on Pennsylvania Route 326 near Chaneysville.

Admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital was William Mallow, 22, of 202 Grand Avenue, who was reported in "fair" condition. He received possible head and internal injuries, according to the hospital.

Treated and released at the same hospital was James M. Wilson, 17, Flintstone, a passenger in the car which was operated by Mallow.

Man Injured In Car Crash

A Frostburg area man was admitted to Miners Hospital in Frostburg yesterday evening with injuries he received in a one-car accident on State Route 36 near Midland.

Reported in "fair" condition at the hospital is John L. Winters, 39, of RFD 1, Frostburg, who sustained a laceration of the wrist, abrasions of the face and possible internal injuries.

Tfc. B. J. Chabot of the State Police investigated the accident which occurred one-half a mile north of Midland at 5:15 p. m.

Tfc. Chabot said Winters was traveling at an apparent high rate of speed when his vehicle ran off the right side of the highway and struck a stone abutment.

Prisoner Taken To State Hospital

William Clifford Hileman, 29, Rockwood, Pa., who has been arrested in the fatal shooting of his mother, Mrs. Ethel Hileman, 50, at her home Sunday afternoon, has been returned to the Somerset (Pa.) State Hospital.

Sheriff Norman F. Walker of Somerset County said he plans to organize a sanity board hearing today and give Hileman a hearing for the purpose of determining if he is fit to stand trial.

Hileman was home for the holidays from Somerset State Hospital, according to authorities, who said the young man shot his mother with a shotgun at point-blank range.

Hileman was being held at the Somerset County Jail without bond, but was transferred to the state hospital.

Youthful Escapee Captured

A Mineral County youth was recaptured yesterday shortly after being taken to the Mineral County Jail at Keyser, to await action on burglary charges.

The youth, Terry Kooken, 18, of New Creek, ran from authorities after Justice of the Peace Madalyn Bazzle had ordered him held under $1,000 bond on a burglary charge.

The pair was apprehended by Cpl. F. W. Armstrong and charged with burglary in connection with a robbery Christmas Eve at the Methodist Childrens Home at Burlington.

Police said they are accused of entering bedrooms on the second floor of the Children's Home and stole $50 in cash belonging to Mrs. Bernice Rhodes, superintendent of the school, and a wrist watch belonging to a 16-year-old girl.

The youths were taken before Magistrate Bazzle yesterday and waived a preliminary hearing. They were ordered held under $1,000 bond each for action of the January term of Mineral County Circuit Court.

Authorities said the boys allegedly broke into the home between 6 and 7:30 p. m. on Christmas Eve while the staff was attending church services.

Police said the cash and watch were being kept in strong boxes, and that the youths knocked the hinges off both boxes to obtain the loot.

Savage River Dam Survey Data Sought

A letter concerning the current Savage River Dam water supply survey for part of Allegany County was read at yesterday's meeting of the Board of County Commissioners.

John C. Childs of the Baltimore consulting engineering firm of Matz, Childs and Associates, Inc., wrote the county commissioners seeking information on the commissioners' efforts to get representatives of the executive branch of the federal government to intercede in getting permission for use of Savage River Dam water for water supply in Allegany County.

Mr. Childs wrote that the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers has indicated to the Upper Potomac River Commission that it (the corps) could not and would not permit use of Savage River Dam water for potable water supply without first receiving assurance of the participation by local interests in the cost of construction of the proposed North Branch Dam on the Potomac just upstream from Bloomington.

The Corps of Engineers last April recommended construction of the $51 million North Branch Dam in the fairly immediate future. Non-federal interests are expected to pay about one-third of the cost of this dam. With this dam available for low-flow augmentation, flood control and recreation the Corps of Engineers would be willing to allow use of some of the present Savage River Dam water for potable water supply, the letter said.

County Commissioner John T. Mason said yesterday that it is hoped to have an answer for Mr. Childs' letter by Friday.

On October 17, representatives of the engineering firm presented a preliminar, report to the county commissioners on the feasibility of extending water supply transmission main from the dam in Garrett County to the southern limits of Cumberland. At that time, they estimated the total cost at $11,600,000 in two stages — $8,200,000 and $3,400,000.

Scouts Make Progress On Park Area

Is Project Of Troop 4 Here

A Boy Scout troop has made considerable progress this fall toward the creation of a new city park area.

Development of a 300 by 400 foot tract of park land on Holland Street, between Catskill and Oswego streets, is the project adopted by Boy Scout Troop 4, sponsored by Centre Street Methodist Church.

The land was donated to the City of Cumberland and dedicated as a park area when the Dilfer Farms subdivision was laid out in 1937.

Fathers Pitch In

Although the work is a Troop 4 project, members of the scout committee, fathers and members of Explorer Post 4 have pitched in to speed work on the development.

George R. Scarlett, Troop 4 scoutmaster, said the scouts and scouters have been clearing underbrush from the area as the first part of the project.

Some of the trees on the undeveloped site, he said, are diseased and must come down.

The Department of Forests and Parks will be asked to examine the trees and make decisions on which can be saved.

The Street Department, he said, has promised to cut down any condemned trees and to haul away brush cut down by the Scout units.

Access Is Easy

Sponsors are interested in a report that a natural spring exists in the center of the park area, and its possibility for development into a pond.

Work on clearing the city park area began early in November, and the troop hopes to have the area cleared of brush and diseased trees by early summer.

The sponsoring scout units hope to get other civic groups here interested in sponsoring other phases of the park development project.
